Ford to VFW: New veteran head named, study of amnesty begun

by BOB LAHEY

President Gerald R. Ford startled a gathering of foreign war veterans Monday with the revelation that he is examining alternatives for amnesty for those who resisted participation in the Vietnam War.

Delegates to the 75th national convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars roared their approval when the new President declared that "unconditional blanket amnesty for anyone who illegally evaded or fled military service is wrong."

They sat in silence, however, when he went on to explain his stance on amnesty, an explanation that included the statement, "I am throwing the weight of my presidency into the scales of justice on the side of leniency."

INVOKING THE names of Abraham Lincoln and Harry Truman, Ford declared, "I reject amnesty and I reject revenge."

Indicating the priority which he had assigned to the matter of amnesty, the President reported that he had instructed U.S. Atty. Gen. William Saxbe and Sec. of Defense James R. Schlesinger to fully investigate the known facts and legal precedents surrounding the question.

Ford acknowledged the "supreme sacrifice" of those who died in Vietnam and noted that he "kept thinking how young they were."

But, he said, those who "committed the supreme folly of shirking their duty at the expense of others also were very young."

They should, he said, "have a second chance."

"All wars," said the four-year World

War II Navy veteran, "are the glory and the agony of the young."

FORD'S DECLARATION on conditional amnesty — he made it clear that some conditions must be imposed, and coined the phrase "earned re-entry" overshadowed the rest of his speech, the first major public statement outside the Capital since he assumed office Aug. 9.

Other than his remarks on amnesty, the veterans and their wives greeted the President's remarks warmly. They greeted with a standing ovation his expected announcement of the appointment of Richard Roudebush of Indiana, a former national commander of the VFW, as administrator of the Veterans Administration.

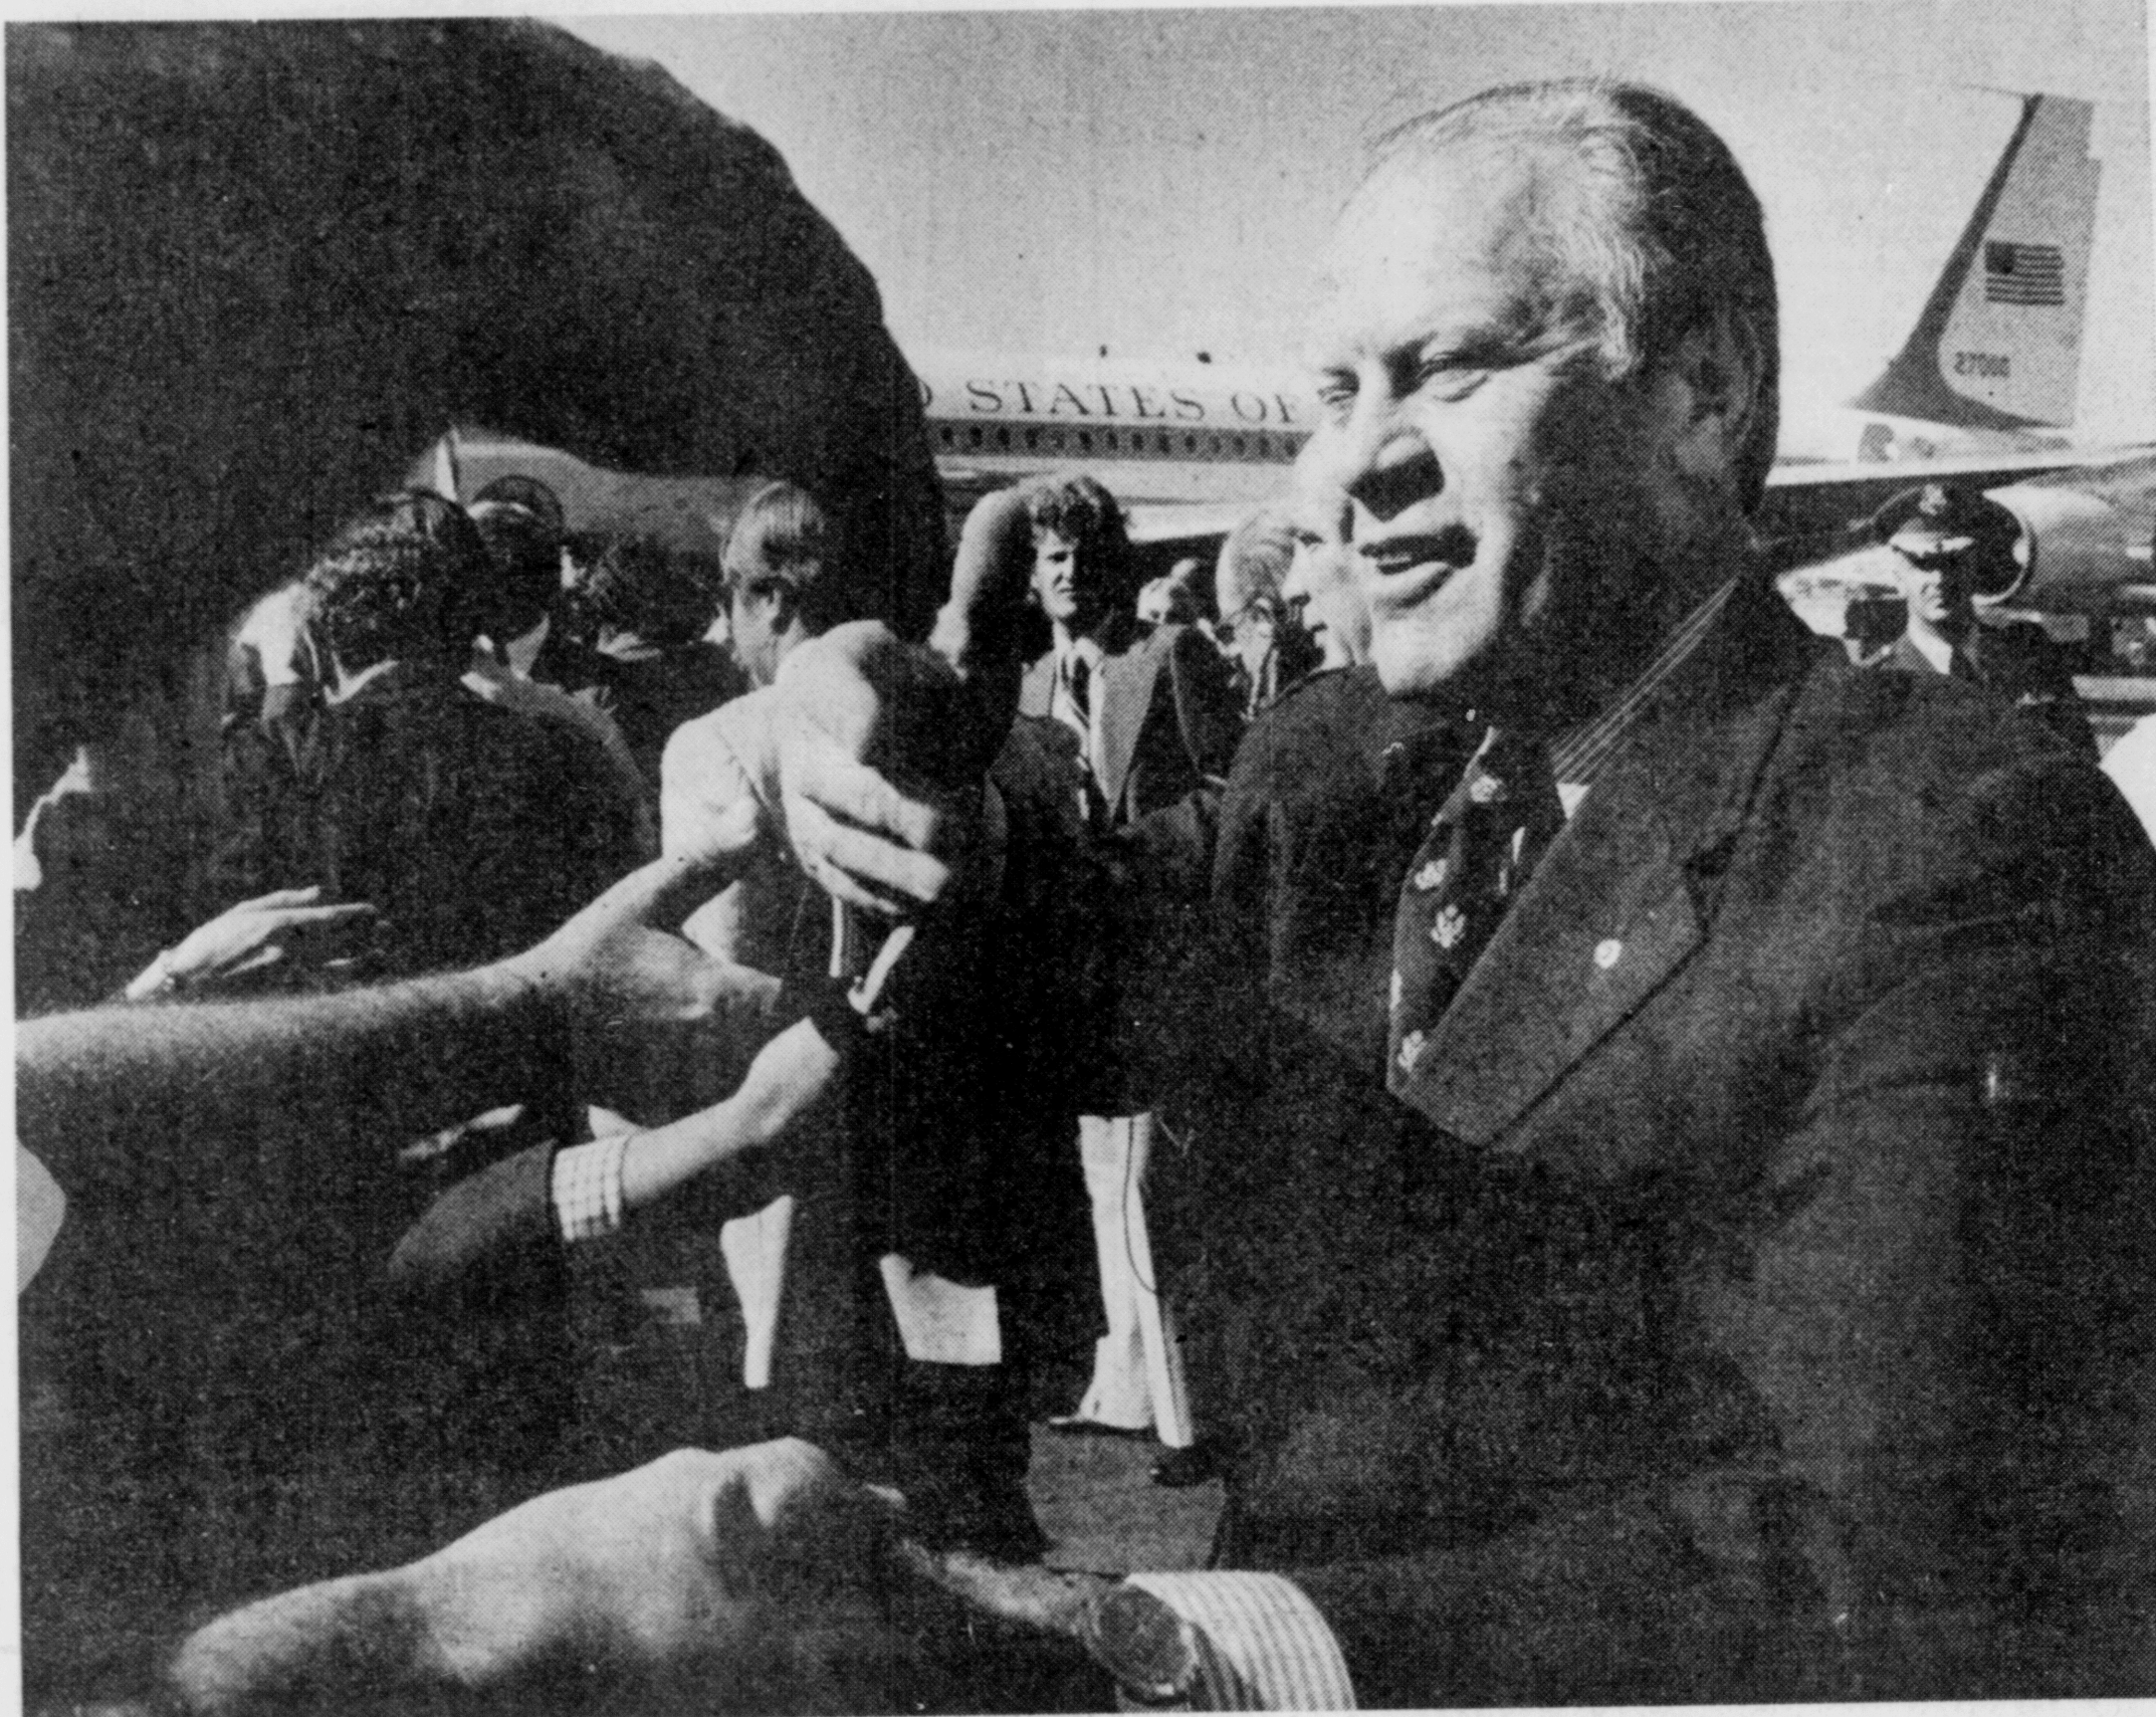

The audience also applauded loudly the President's pledges to make the Veterans Administration more responsive to individual needs, to maintain service of veterans' hospitals, and to upgrade federal benefits for veterans of the Vietnam War.

Wild applause greeted his declaration, "If we can send men thousands and thousands of miles from home to fight in rice paddies, certainly we can send them back to school and to better jobs at home."

Ford's first major public address was preceded by a motorcade from O'Hare International Airport to the Conrad Hilton Hotel, during which an enthusiastic crowd cheered him in the final leg of the trip down Michigan Avenue.

THE PRESIDENT was accompanied in the motorcade by U.S. Rep. Samuel H. Young, (R-10th), and NATO Ambassador Donald Rumsfeld, former North Shore congressman, who were among the

Unlike 1973, settlement hopes high

Threat of teachers' unrest again clouds school opening

by LINDA PUNCH
A news analysis

A year ago, Des Plaines students returned to classes with the threat of a teachers' strike hanging over their heads.

In Des Plaines Dist. 62, the school board steadfastly refused to negotiate nonsalary items, while teachers took their case to the public through a series of parent coffees and demonstrations.

In East Maine Dist. 63 teacher union members adopted a six-point program designed to force the school board to negotiate working conditions. The opening day of school was marked by teachers picketing a junior high school before classes.

In both districts, hopes for a quick settlement were dim. Bargaining sessions were conducted in an atmosphere of distrust and hostility.

AS IN 1973, Des Plaines teachers in both districts again face the prospect of returning to the classroom without a contract. Although negotiations began in early spring, negotiators for teachers and board have failed to reach an agreement on salary.

Unlike last fall's contract dispute, however, teachers and board representatives still have hopes of an early settlement.

In Dist. 62, negotiators for both sides are optimistic but cautious. Ray Gunn, chief negotiator for the Des Plaines Education Assn. (DPEA), said the major obstacle is salary.

"We've agreed on about 70 per cent of the nonsalary items, which was the big thing last year," he said. "Once we agree on salary, the other things will fall into line."

Gunn termed this year's negotiations "much better off" noting that "we had nothing signed at this time last year."

Stuart Kisten, chairman of the board negotiations team, also sees salary as the only roadblock to settlement.

"The major nonsalary items have been resolved — I think we've made good progress," he said.

NEITHER MAN will predict a settlement before the opening of school, noting that while salary is the only hangup, it is an important one.

Gunn said talks have centered on the salary issue for nearly six weeks. "With inflation, money is the first and foremost issue," he said.

Kisten also said the salary item is "causing some concern. The cost of living has gone up and everyone's expectations are high."

IN DIST. 63, contract talks have also hit a snag over salary. The East Maine Education Assn. (EMEA) declared an impasse last month and negotiators will be meeting with a federal mediator.

A teacher spokesman said no progress was being made in negotiations and that teachers "believed things could be settled more readily with a mediator present." Yet, as in Dist. 62, both sides are looking for an early settlement.

While the two Des Plaines districts are among the few area districts without a contract settlement, negotiations seem to be progressing much better than in 1973. Both teachers and board members are approaching the bargaining table with little of the distrust and hostility of last fall's contract dispute.

And, as one teacher union member noted, "At least we've been talking."

Mandas basement rental blocked

A Circuit Court judge has enjoined local landowner Gus Mandas from renting out the basement of property he owns at 1419 Lincoln St., Des Plaines. The property is in violation of city building and zoning codes.

The order, agreed on by attorneys for Mandas and the city, was entered Monday before Associate Judge Jerome Burke in the Des Plaines branch of Circuit Court.

The injunction prohibits Mandas from allowing more persons than allowed by city ordinance to occupy the house.

In a complaint filed by city building officials, Mandas was charged with renting out the basement of the house as an apartment.

Several other Mandas-owned properties were the target of city investigations several months ago. A number of city code violations were found at an apartment on Ellinwood and Center Streets in downtown Des Plaines.

The violations were corrected without court action after agreement between Mandas and city officials.

New Centel phone books being distributed

New telephone directories with scenic covers have been distributed by Central Telephone Co. to customers in the Des Plaines area.

In some instances, fewer directories were delivered than in the past due to the growing paper shortage. Customers needing additional directories may call the business office and directories will be made available.

As a conservation effort, Centel will locate a bin for old directories at its parking lot, 2004 Miner St., for persons who want to recycle old directories.

The new directories are the first in Centel history to utilize a decorative cover rather than the more traditional covers used in the past. Centel developed the scenic cover to give customers a decorative as well as functional book for use in the home and office.

Centel subscribers desiring an unmarked reproduction of the cover, 15½ by 23½ inches, may obtain one by visiting the telephone business office, 2004 Miner St.

Several improvements also have been incorporated inside the directories.

Emergency numbers have been printed inside the front cover on heavier, more durable paper than is used inside the directory.

Information pages have been divided into three major areas: local calling, followed by long distance information, then general information.

"Conversation Pieces" is located in the interior of the directory between the white and yellow pages. It is a sampling of many of the telephone styles, along with color samples to help in decorating the home or office.

Police trying to identify body

Police were trying to determine Monday if a body found Saturday near Big Bend Lake in Des Plaines was that of a Northwest Chicago youth reported missing from his home last May.

Positive identification had still not been established, nor had the cause of death been found.

According to police reports, identification found in a wallet on the decomposed body bore the name of Kenneth D. Macaluso, 16, of 7328 Oriole Ave., Chicago.

A youth by that name was reported missing from his home May 27, police said.

The body was found by a fisherman about 75 yards west of the lake in a wooded area just south of Golf Road.

The victim was wearing blue trousers, a blue long-sleeve shirt, a brown leather belt and blue-and-white tennis shoes. The clothing has been sent to the state crime lab in Joliet for tests, according to reports.

Police also said the victim wore a calendar watch that had stopped on the 25th day of the month.

Police were using dental charts in an effort to determine the body's identity.

Three strikers arrested in rock-throwing melee

Three persons were arrested Saturday after a rock-throwing incident involving a security guard and striking employees

Correction

A story in last Friday's Herald reported that an accident resulted at Campground and Algonquin roads when a Des Plaines motorist, Steve Wilt, 21, struck an auto driven by a woman as she was making a left turn.

The woman, Georgene Andersen, of River Grove was not making a left turn but was westbound on Algonquin Road when the collision occurred.

Police also said Wilt was ticketed for failure to yield the right-of-way while making a left turn, not failure to yield the right-of-way for a left turn.

of the Parker-Hanifin Co. in Des Plaines.

The disturbance occurred near company offices at 501 S. Wolf Rd. after police said rocks were thrown at an auto owned by Alfred Figueroa, 29, who was policing the area.

Police said words were exchanged between three striking pickets and Figueroa who told police he suffered a cut lip after at least three rocks hit his car.

Company employees have been on strike for about three weeks.

Charged with damage to property were Chicagoans Sam Fugazzotto, 21, of 2056 W. Erie; LeRoy Sutton, 39, of 6618 Kimbark; and David Tiggs, 22, of 6417 S. Drexel.

They will appear Sept. 26 in the Des Plaines branch of Circuit Court.

Interchange fight submitted to U.S.

The fight for an interchange on Interstate 90 at Biesterfield Road in Elk Grove Village has been passed to the Federal Highway Administration for consideration. The Illinois Department of Transportation sent the request for the interchange, which could reduce emergency travel time to Alexian Brothers Medical Center by up to five minutes. A petition bearing 17,000 names supporting the interchange was given to the state.

Tax errors to be corrected

County officials have met to correct taxing errors that resulted in excessive tax bills for residents of Ivy Hill subdivision in Arlington Heights. Owners of 44 homes received tax rates of $8.062 per $100 of assessed valuation instead of $7.844. The owners were included in the wrong school district, according to county officials. All county residents can protest tax bills until Sept. 15, although the Ivy Hills mistake will be taken care of automatically.

Bail frees vice ring defendant

A Palatine woman charged with operating a prostitution ring in a downtown Chicago hotel has been released on bail pending her Sept. 24 court date. Chicago police vice squad officers said they arranged for a live sex show at the hotel Friday and arrested Sonia Lach, 27, of 903 Aster, Palatine, and a Norridge woman when they attempted to contract for prostitution after the show. Police said there may be more arrests.

Cops hurt in rescue attempts

A Hoffman Estates policeman and a police cadet were injured Sunday after heroic attempts to save two persons from a burning house at 561 Caldwell Ln., Hoffman Estates. Jack Miller, 27, of 1427 Valley Lake Dr., Schaumburg, was killed in the fire. Diane Sykstus, 31, who resided in the house, was injured. Sgt. Ronald Sperandio and cadet Michael DelMedico were treated for injuries and smoke inhalation after repeated attempts to get into the blazing house. "We just did what we had to do," DelMedico said.

Track housing plan may be shown

Housing plans for Arlington Park Race Track property are expected to be revealed today at a meeting of the plat and subdivision committee of the Arlington Heights plan commission. Officials of the Richards Group of Illinois have refused to comment on details of the plan, but it is believed to include more than 4,000 housing units in high-rise and townhouse structures. The Richards Group is a subsidiary of Madison Square Garden Corp., owner of Arlington Park.

Girl dies of crash injuries

An 11-year-old Mount Prospect girl struck by a car Thursday died Monday in Holy Family Hospital, Des Plaines. Darcie B. Rosentrater, 902 Sumac Ln., never regained consciousness after she was struck while crossing Wolf Road near Euclid Avenue in Mount Prospect. The driver, Donna Zientarski of Wheeling Twp., has been charged by sheriff's police with failure to yield to a pedestrian.

2 burglary gang members nabbed

Two Rolling Meadows youths described as part of a local burglary gang were arrested Saturday by Nebraska State Police and charged with auto theft and assault with a deadly weapon. The weapon charge against the two 15-year-olds stems from an armed robbery of a Nebraska grocery store, police said. Police here will charge the youths with burglary when they are returned to their families.

But top-level post may come first

Rumsfeld to return here—someday

by STEVE FORSYTH
Former Congressman Donald Rumsfeld plans to return to his Illinois homeland someday, depending on how the winds of political fortune blow. Presently serving as U. S. ambassador to NATO in Brussels, Belgium, he was recalled personally by President Gerald Ford Aug. 9 to supervise transition of the White House staff. Rumsfeld arrived at O'Hare Airport Sunday evening for a short visit with his family in Winnetka before attending Ford's speech to the Veterans of Foreign Wars Convention Monday and commented on his future. Asked if he had plans to return to Illinois, he said, "I do. They're not hard plans. When I can find a reasonable closing point (at the White House or NATO), that's my full intention." RUMSFELD HAS BEEN mentioned as a possible candidate for several positions, including vice president. Political observers also believe he may return to Illinois to run for the Senate, or may accept a staff or cabinet position with Ford.

He avoided answering whether he would accept the vice presidency if it was offered to him. He said he, like many others, has made suggestions to Ford, but "It's his decision and I'm told he'll make it soon." As for speculation that he might take over as chief of staff for the President, replacing Gen. Alexander Haig, Rumsfeld said Sunday, "That's not in the cards."

The pressing issue of the Cyprus crisis requires him to return to NATO, Rumsfeld said, hinting that he would accept no posts in Washington immediately. He said his transition report to Ford is nearly complete and he should be on his way back to Brussels tonight or Wednesday. His temporary duty in Washington was emphasized by his lack of luggage. He said he brought almost nothing when he was summoned from a vacation in southern France. COMMENTING ON THE new President's administration, Rumsfeld said of his long-time Congressional friend, "I think he's off to a great start. His biggest asset is himself. He's a decent man with a lot of ability and good balance. "He will establish a presidency that will reflect himself and the times we live in. It's not easy to govern today — indeed, it's difficult. Some problems don't lend themselves to instant solutions, and call for a great deal of leadership."

FORMER SUBURBAN congressman Donald Rumsfeld watches close friend Gerald Ford delivering a speech Monday to the Veterans of Foreign Wars convention in Chicago. Presently U.S. Ambassador to NATO, Rumsfeld is expected to assume a post in the White House or return to politics soon.

Harper to offer class in drug education

The fall term begins at Harper College Monday, and the college is offering a variety of courses this year. Among them is a course called "Drugs, Education and Society," which will be offered for 16 weeks from 6 to 8 p.m. on Wednesdays beginning Aug. 28. The course is aimed at educating adults in the identification, use, prescription and side effects of various drugs.

A new program in "Park and Grounds Operations Management" has been added to the fall schedule at Harper. The two-year program offers an associate degree in applied science. Courses offered in the program this fall will be botany, soil science, basic horticultural skills and introduction to park management. A new material management program will include courses in fundamentals of material management, principles of physical distribution, inventory control for material managers, transportation for material managers and purchasing. A course in merchandising of furnishings and softline goods will be offered twice on Mondays at Harper. The course is scheduled from 10 to 11:40 a.m. and 7:50 to 10 p.m. It is designed for retail store personnel as well as students interested in a career in merchandising of clothing and home furnishings.

HARPER WILL offer an eight-week course this fall for parents of preschoolers. "Group Parent Education" will be taught on Thursdays from Aug. 29 to Oct. 19 at Barrington High School from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Topics of discussion will be discipline, Montessori education, parent effectiveness training, and guidelines for choosing a nursery school. Classes in ornamental horticulture, landscaping, gardening and home landscaping will be offered by Harper at Barrington High School. The classes will be held from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Wednesdays for eight sessions. Registration for classes may be by mail or in person at Harper's office of admissions, Algonquin and Roselle Roads, Palatine, 60067. All students should register by the end of open registration scheduled Thursday through Saturday.

Don't blame President for traffic backup

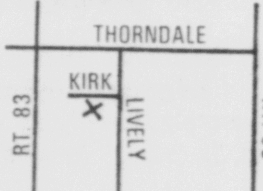

If you were stuck in that five-mile traffic jam on the Northwest Tollway Monday morning, don't blame President Ford. It was the construction work on the road that caused the backup, not any special traffic control for the President's arrival in Chicago, state police said. The backup resulted when heavy Monday morning traffic was forced to squeeze through two lanes instead of three where construction workers were pouring a concrete barrier to divide eastbound and westbound traffic, police said.

U.S. Embassy in Nicosia attacked

Ambassador Davies killed

NICOSIA (UPI) — U.S. Ambassador Rodger P. Davies was shot to death in the American Embassy Monday by gunmen who raked the building with automatic weapons fire as he sought shelter during a riotous anti-American demonstration, an embassy spokesman said.

Antoinette Varnara, 32, a Greek-Cypriot secretary at the embassy, also died in the shooting which erupted when hundreds of Greek Cypriots protested U.S. failure to halt the Turkish invasion, the spokesman said.

Under cover of the demonstration gunmen scaled the fence surrounding the embassy compound and pumped automatic rifle fire into the entrance and windows, some from the street and others from the embassy porch.

The gunmen wore the military-style uniforms of the EOKA-B Greek Cypriot guerrilla organization, which backs unity of Cyprus with Greece.

"A burst of bullets smashed through the shutters of the ambassador's office, through two doorways and into a corridor where the ambassador and his staff had taken refuge," embassy spokesman David Grimland said. "It was pure bad luck the ambassador was hit."

Rodger P. Davies

• In Washington, Pentagon officials said two aircraft carriers were put on post in the eastern Mediterranean. The officials said the USS Independence would remain on station and would be joined by the USS Forrestal.

• In London, deposed Cyprus President Archbishop Makarios said he was perturbed and deeply grieved. He blamed "terrorists of the EOKA-B, who were responsible for the coup of July 15" which overthrew his government.

• In Athens, Greek Premier Constantine Karamanlis condemned it and said it will only add to Greece's problems over Cyprus.

• In Ankara, Turkish Foreign Minister Turan Guner said the killing helped to justify Turkey's military offensives on the island.

Davies, 53, had arrived in Cyprus only a week before the crisis on the Mediterranean island blew up July 15 following the pro-Greek coup which ousted President Archbishop Makarios.

The attack on the embassy took place under cover of a wild demonstration by more than 700 Greek Cypriots to protest the failure of the United States to halt the Turkish invasion of Cyprus.

U.S. Marine guards fired over the heads of the demonstrators and Greek Cypriot police used tear gas in efforts to hold the mob back from the embassy.

The demonstrators burned an effigy of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and tore down the American flag and set it on fire, screaming "Burn them down, as they burned Cyprus down!"

Witnesses said United Nations armored personnel carriers driven by Canadian troops tried to reach the embassy building, but were pelted by stones and bottles thrown by the mob.

greeting party at O'Hare. Those on hand to greet the President at O'Hare also included township committeemen Carl Hansen of Elk Grove Township and Fred Yonkers of Wheeling Township. The crowd around the intersection of Michigan Avenue and S. Water Street became tumultuously vocal when the President halted the motorcade and departed from his bullet-proof limousine to shake hands with observers.

A few blocks down the street, however, the presidential party was confronted by an emotional throng of thousands of Greek residents and sympathizers protesting with vigorous chants Turkish armed aggression against Cyprus.

Ford entered and left the Conrad Hilton without acknowledging the deafening roar of the demonstrators.

In his speech to the veterans, he made no reference to the Cyprus situation, except to the killing earlier in the morning of U.S. Ambassador Rodger P. Davies, which brought a gasp of astonishment from the audience, most of whom apparently had not yet heard the news.

Ford will announce choice for vice president today

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford said yesterday his choice as a vice president, to be announced today, will be first and foremost a person "who would be a good president."

Talking with reporters on Air Force 1 en route back to Washington from Chicago, the President turned aside all questions as to who is still in the running for the No. 2 job.

"I haven't told anybody," he said. "I'm a sphinx."

But White House counsellor Robert Hartman, who also was aboard the plane, said the vice presidential nominee would definitely be a Republican.

Asked about the qualifications he was seeking, Ford said: "Naturally I think you have to take into consideration who would be a good president. And there is a broad parameter after that. I don't want to go beyond that."

Indications were that former New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller remained in the running despite an allegation that he helped finance 1972 "dirty tricks." The other leading contender for the No. 2 post is GOP National Chairman George Bush.

Greeks close shops to join protest

Many Greek restaurants and businesses in the Northwest suburbs were closed Monday as their owners joined an estimated 10,000 Greek-Americans who gathered to demonstrate in Chicago's Grant Park.

Jim Panagakos, owner of the Dunton House Restaurant, 11 W. Davis St., Arlington Heights, said about 150 Greek-Americans gathered at his restaurant Monday morning before boarding a 7:30 Chicago and North Western Ry. train to Chicago.

The rally, to protest the continued fighting on Cyprus, was held across from the Conrad Hilton Hotel where President Gerald R. Ford addressed the national convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Among the restaurants closed in the Northwest suburbs because of the demonstration were: Dunton House, Countryside, Evans House, Eros Snack Shop and Around the Clock in Arlington Heights; the Pickwick House, Uncle Andy's Cow Palace and the Palatine House in Palatine; Evans Restaurant and the Flaming Torch in Mount Prospect; and Manda's Snack Shop in Des Plaines.

"We worked all night to get everyone together," Panagakos said.

A sign on the Dunton House door read: "Closed in memory of the women and children who have died in Cyprus." All of the restaurants were expected to reopen today.

In Grant Park, many of the demonstrators held up signs, many written in Greek, reading: "Kissinger Resign," "Troops Get Out of Cyprus," and "Kissinger the Turk."

Greek-Americans from as far away as Iowa and Wisconsin turned out for the demonstration. Word of the protest was spread over Greek-language radio stations and in the Greek press.

"We closed our businesses and sacrificed to protest patriotically. This goes real deep. We just can't take it. It hurts," said Joan Dulios, who had come with 1,000 other Greek-Americans by chartered bus from Gary, Ind.

Others in the crowd said that Greek-Americans are ready to fight to protect their homeland if the Cyprus war spreads to the mainland.

"Patriotism, that's part of being Greek," Mrs. Dulios said.

Throughout the morning a band played the Greek national anthem. At the head of the crowd, a large black cross symbolized the people's mourning for dead Greek Cypriots.

At 11:30 a.m., an announcement over a loudspeaker informed the crowd that Ford had agreed to meet with Sen. Charles Percy to discuss United States policy toward the Cyprus conflict. The crowd reacted with jeers and boos.

The president of St. John the Baptist Greek Orthodox Church in Des Plaines, John Kretekos, Monday said he did not think many of his church members planned to take part in the demonstration, which he identified as primarily a Chicago-organized protest.

However a special collection taken up Sunday in the church raised $400 for the Cyprus War Relief Fund, Kretekos said.

Panagakos said Greek-American businessmen from the Northwest suburbs decided to participate in the rally "because we feel sorry for what has happened."

One of the organizers of the protest, William H. Gianakis, who runs a Chicago employment agency, said the demonstrators hoped "to show our disapproval of all that has happened on Cyprus."

He said the Greeks are outraged because Turkey's invasion of the Mediterranean island "could have been stopped by the United States."

JIM PANAGAKOS posts a sign closing the Dunton House Restaurant in Arlington Heights. Most Greek-owned area restaurants were closed.

First lady of South Korea is buried

• With 3,000 Korean and foreign dignitaries in attendance, South Korea buried its First lady in a national funeral Monday. Mrs. Park Chung-hee, killed by an assassin's bullet intended for her husband, was interred in the national cemetery with the president — in keeping with an age-old Korean Custom — not present. Meantime, Korean officials questioned the accused assassin — 22-year-old Moon Sekwang — on suspected ties with North Korea, which the North Koreans hotly denied.

• Now serving a 10-year sentence at Fort Leavenworth Prison for his part in the My Lai massacre, Lt. William Calley failed Monday to be free on bail while attorneys appeal his conviction through civilian courts. U. S. Supreme Court Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. rejected Calley's appeal in one-word decision: "Denied."

• While the Gerald Fords were in Chicago Monday, National Park Service workers took advantage of the occasion to move the remainder of the first family's belongings from their Alexandria, Va., home to the White House. Among the items moved was their king-size double bed, which became an item of interest because most recent presidents and their wives — at least back through Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt — slept in separate bedrooms.

• Presidents come and go, and so do their pilots. Col. Ralph Albertazie, the man who flew President Nixon all over the world at the controls of Air Force One for 5½ years, including Nixon's last flight to San Clemente on Aug. 9, is retiring after 24 years in the Air Force. President Ford's pilot — the man who flew him to and from Chicago Monday — is Lt. Col. Lester McClelland of Masontown, Pa., copilot aboard the "Spirit of 76" on so many of those journeys.

NEW PRESIDENT'S NEW PILOT

People

• Somewhere in the White House is a farewell note from David Eisenhower. Former President Nixon's son-in-law owned up that he left one behind and it's up to the White House Staff to find out where. He did the same as a lad of 12 when grandfather Dwight Eisenhower left office, at that time leaving hidden behind picture notes saying, "I shall return."

• There was no fanfare when Kiyomi Yamashita sailed into Los Angeles harbor over the weekend, but then no one was expecting him. Behind was an epic voyage for the 29-year-old sailor, who in 86 days — living on rice and fish — sailed his 21-foot boat The Milky Way on a solo journey along the Great Circle route from Japan.

Walker asks suit be filed against Lindberg

Gov. Daniel Walker yesterday asked Atty. Gen. William J. Scott to file suit against Comptroller George Lindberg to clear up "with finality" legal questions that threaten the state's spending of some $200 million in federal and state funds. Lindberg last week threatened to shut off spending by 13 state departments and agencies if it was determined by the attorney general that spending not specifically approved by the legislature is illegal.

House votes return to standard time

The House voted yesterday to put the nation back on standard time from November through February, rather than the daylight saving time adopted during the energy crisis last winter. The measure, approved 383 to 16, was sent to the Senate. Last week the Senate included a similar provision in an energy-related bill that it passed. In other action, the House yesterday approved enactment of President Ford's new Cost of Living Task Force. The Senate also began debate on the bill. Final approval is expected before Congress adjourns late this week for its Labor Day recess.

Panel to make final Nixon report today

The House of Representatives once planned to start impeachment proceedings against Richard Nixon yesterday. Instead, it will receive today the final report of its Judiciary Committee, and close the books on the Nixon case. The second presidential impeachment effort in U.S. history died with Nixon's resignation Aug. 9.

'Alphabet' claims blast responsibility

The so-called "alphabet bomber" claimed responsibility for the weekend explosion that rocked an industrial section of Los Angeles, and in a new telephone call pledged to keep the city "clean of fireworks" for the next few days, police said Monday. The blast virtually leveled a square-block area of the city Saturday night.

Probe Rebozo on funds diversion issue

The Watergate prosecutors revealed yesterday they are conducting a grand jury investigation into allegations that Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo illegally diverted at least $41,000 in campaign funds to pay for improvements to Richard Nixon's homes and to buy a set of diamond earrings for Mrs. Nixon. Legal papers say it is believed the money came from a $100,000 campaign contribution from billionaire Howard Hughes and a $50,000 donation from food chain owner A. D. Davis.

Begin airlift for Philippine flood victims

U.S. and Philippine military helicopters began a joint airlift of food, candles, medicine and clothing to more than half a million refugees in the flood-ravaged central Luzon provinces north of Manila yesterday. Although floodwaters were reported receding, Philippine Air Force Maj. Gen. Jose Rancudo said relief operations in the disaster zone may continue for another two weeks.

Dow Jones at four-year low

Renewed violence on Cyprus unsettled the stock market Monday, driving the Dow Jones industrial average to a four-year low on the New York Stock Exchange. Trading was light. The Dow fell 9.70 to 721.84, its lowest level since it closed Aug. 18, 1970, at 716.66. Standard & Poor's index also hit a 1974 low of 74.57, off 1.10. The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Vitamins don't contain calories

I have been told by other people that the daily intake of vitamin C pills and other vitamin pills will cause a person's appetite to increase or cause that person to gain weight. Is this statement true?

Vitamins do not contain calories. There is no way they could increase your appetite unless you were deficient in vitamins and taking them improved your health and hence your appetite. I think you will have to look for something more substantial as a cause for weight gain and that something is usually calories.

My husband woke up one morning with a badly swollen leg. No pain at all. After 10 days he saw a doctor. He was not our regular doctor, and he thought he had a heart condition. He gave him some pills for this. Our regular doctor came back and he put him in the hospital where his leg was elevated and hot packs applied. He spent four days in the hospital and his leg was still swollen. The doctor stopped the heart pills as his tests showed him to be in excellent health and with no heart problems.

We moved to Florida and our new doctor looked over both reports. He is puzzled by the swelling, too. His ankle and foot are still swollen, but the swelling has gone down in his leg. He has been wearing an elastic stocking as recommended but feels that it is cutting off the circulation as it is too tight at the top. The doctor suggested that he might have a circulation problem but said he didn't know. I'd appreciate your thoughts about this.

It is true that some heart problems cause swelling of the feet, BUT it is swelling of both feet or both legs and not marked swelling of just one. Swelling of just one leg usually means failure of the veins to drain the leg properly as can occur if there is a clot in a deep vein inside the leg. I would guess that is what your own doctor thought when he elevated the leg and used hot packs.

The lymph system in the leg can also be obstructed. Not many people realize there is still another circulation besides the blood circulation. We have an extensive network of "lymph channels" throughout the body that circulates that clear fluid that sometimes seeps out of a wound. The lymph channels are all connected to all those lymph glands in the body and eventually empty the lymph into the circulation near the heart. When it is obstructed it can cause swelling.

Then, there is the possibility of an inflammation, but there should be some physical evidence if that were the case. The mystery is, what is obstructing the flow of lymph or the normal drainage of the veins in that leg? That could be a lot of different things.

Happily though, it sounds like your husband is getting well. The foot and ankle stay swollen longest because they are literally the bottom of the bucket, and that is where the fluid collects. As the swelling diminishes, there may be less need for elastic support at the top of the stocking. And, you should tell your husband's doctor that the stocking is too tight at the top. He can probably fix that problem for you.

10th District wrapup

Sen. Proxmire will aid Abner Mikva

Wisconsin Sen. William A. Proxmire will "deliver a message" to households in Des Plaines Saturday for 10th District congressional candidate Abner Mikva.

The Democratic senator will be among an expected 1,000 volunteers passing out a tabloid newspaper containing Mikva's views on the economy, education, crime, environment and ethics.

The volunteers, including Proxmire, will be wearing "Mikva Message" buttons, and will deliver the newspaper to every home in the 10th District between noon and 3 p.m.

Saturday's effort is intended to counter incumbent Rep. Samuel H. Young's alleged misuse of the Congressional frank, according to Jack Marco, Mikva's campaign manager.

Mikva has filed a complaint with the U.S. House Commission on Congressional Mailing Standards, stating that Young has "blatantly abused both the letter and spirit of the rules governing the privilege."

The franking privilege allows congressmen and senators to mail official letters and documents for free.

Young has denied the charges saying he has received written and verbal approval for several of the newsletters Mikva has complained about.

Following distribution of the Mikva newspapers a rally will be held in Linne Woods in Morton Grove.

Proxmire will distribute for Mikva in Glencoe, Wilmette, Northbrook, Winnetka, Park Ridge and Niles. Mikva will distribute copies in Skokie, Evanston and Glenview.

Officials in 'love-in'

U. S. Rep. Samuel Young, U.S. Sen. Charles Percy, State Sen. Bradley Glass and George Burditt, candidate for the U.S. Senate are warming up their tennis arms for the Sept. 24 "love-in."

The four will be playing a match at the Glenview Park District tennis courts from 3 to 5 p.m. Mrs. Russell Cobb and Mrs. Wilfrid Stanhuus, both of Glenview, are chairpersons for the event.

The referee and linesmen will be members of the various area Republican organizations and state representatives from the district.

Constituents of the 10th Congressional District are invited to the "love-in." A minimal fee will be charged and refreshments will be available.

Young expects Ford at rally

U.S. Rep. Samuel Young supporters are going ahead with arrangements for a Sept. 27 rally featuring President Gerald R. Ford.

Joseph Mathewson of Winnetka and Dena Anastos of Morton Grove have been named chairmen for the rally, sponsored by Young for Congress, 1974.

Mathewson said the rally was scheduled while Ford still held the office of vice president. Mathewson is hopeful Ford will keep the date and said, "We have been given no indication, as yet, that he'll be unable to attend."

Plans include a picnic dinner open to the public.

$1,065,105 levy ordinance OKd

The Mount Prospect Park District Board of Commissioners last week adopted a $1,065,105 tax levy ordinance for 1974-75.

Funds raised through taxes go toward the park district's budget of $1,442,627.50. The balance of the amount needed is obtained through recreation fees.

The park district's 1974-75 tax rate is 39.0 cents per $100 assessed valuation, down slightly from the previous rate of 40.4 cents.

Sprinklers put in washrooms

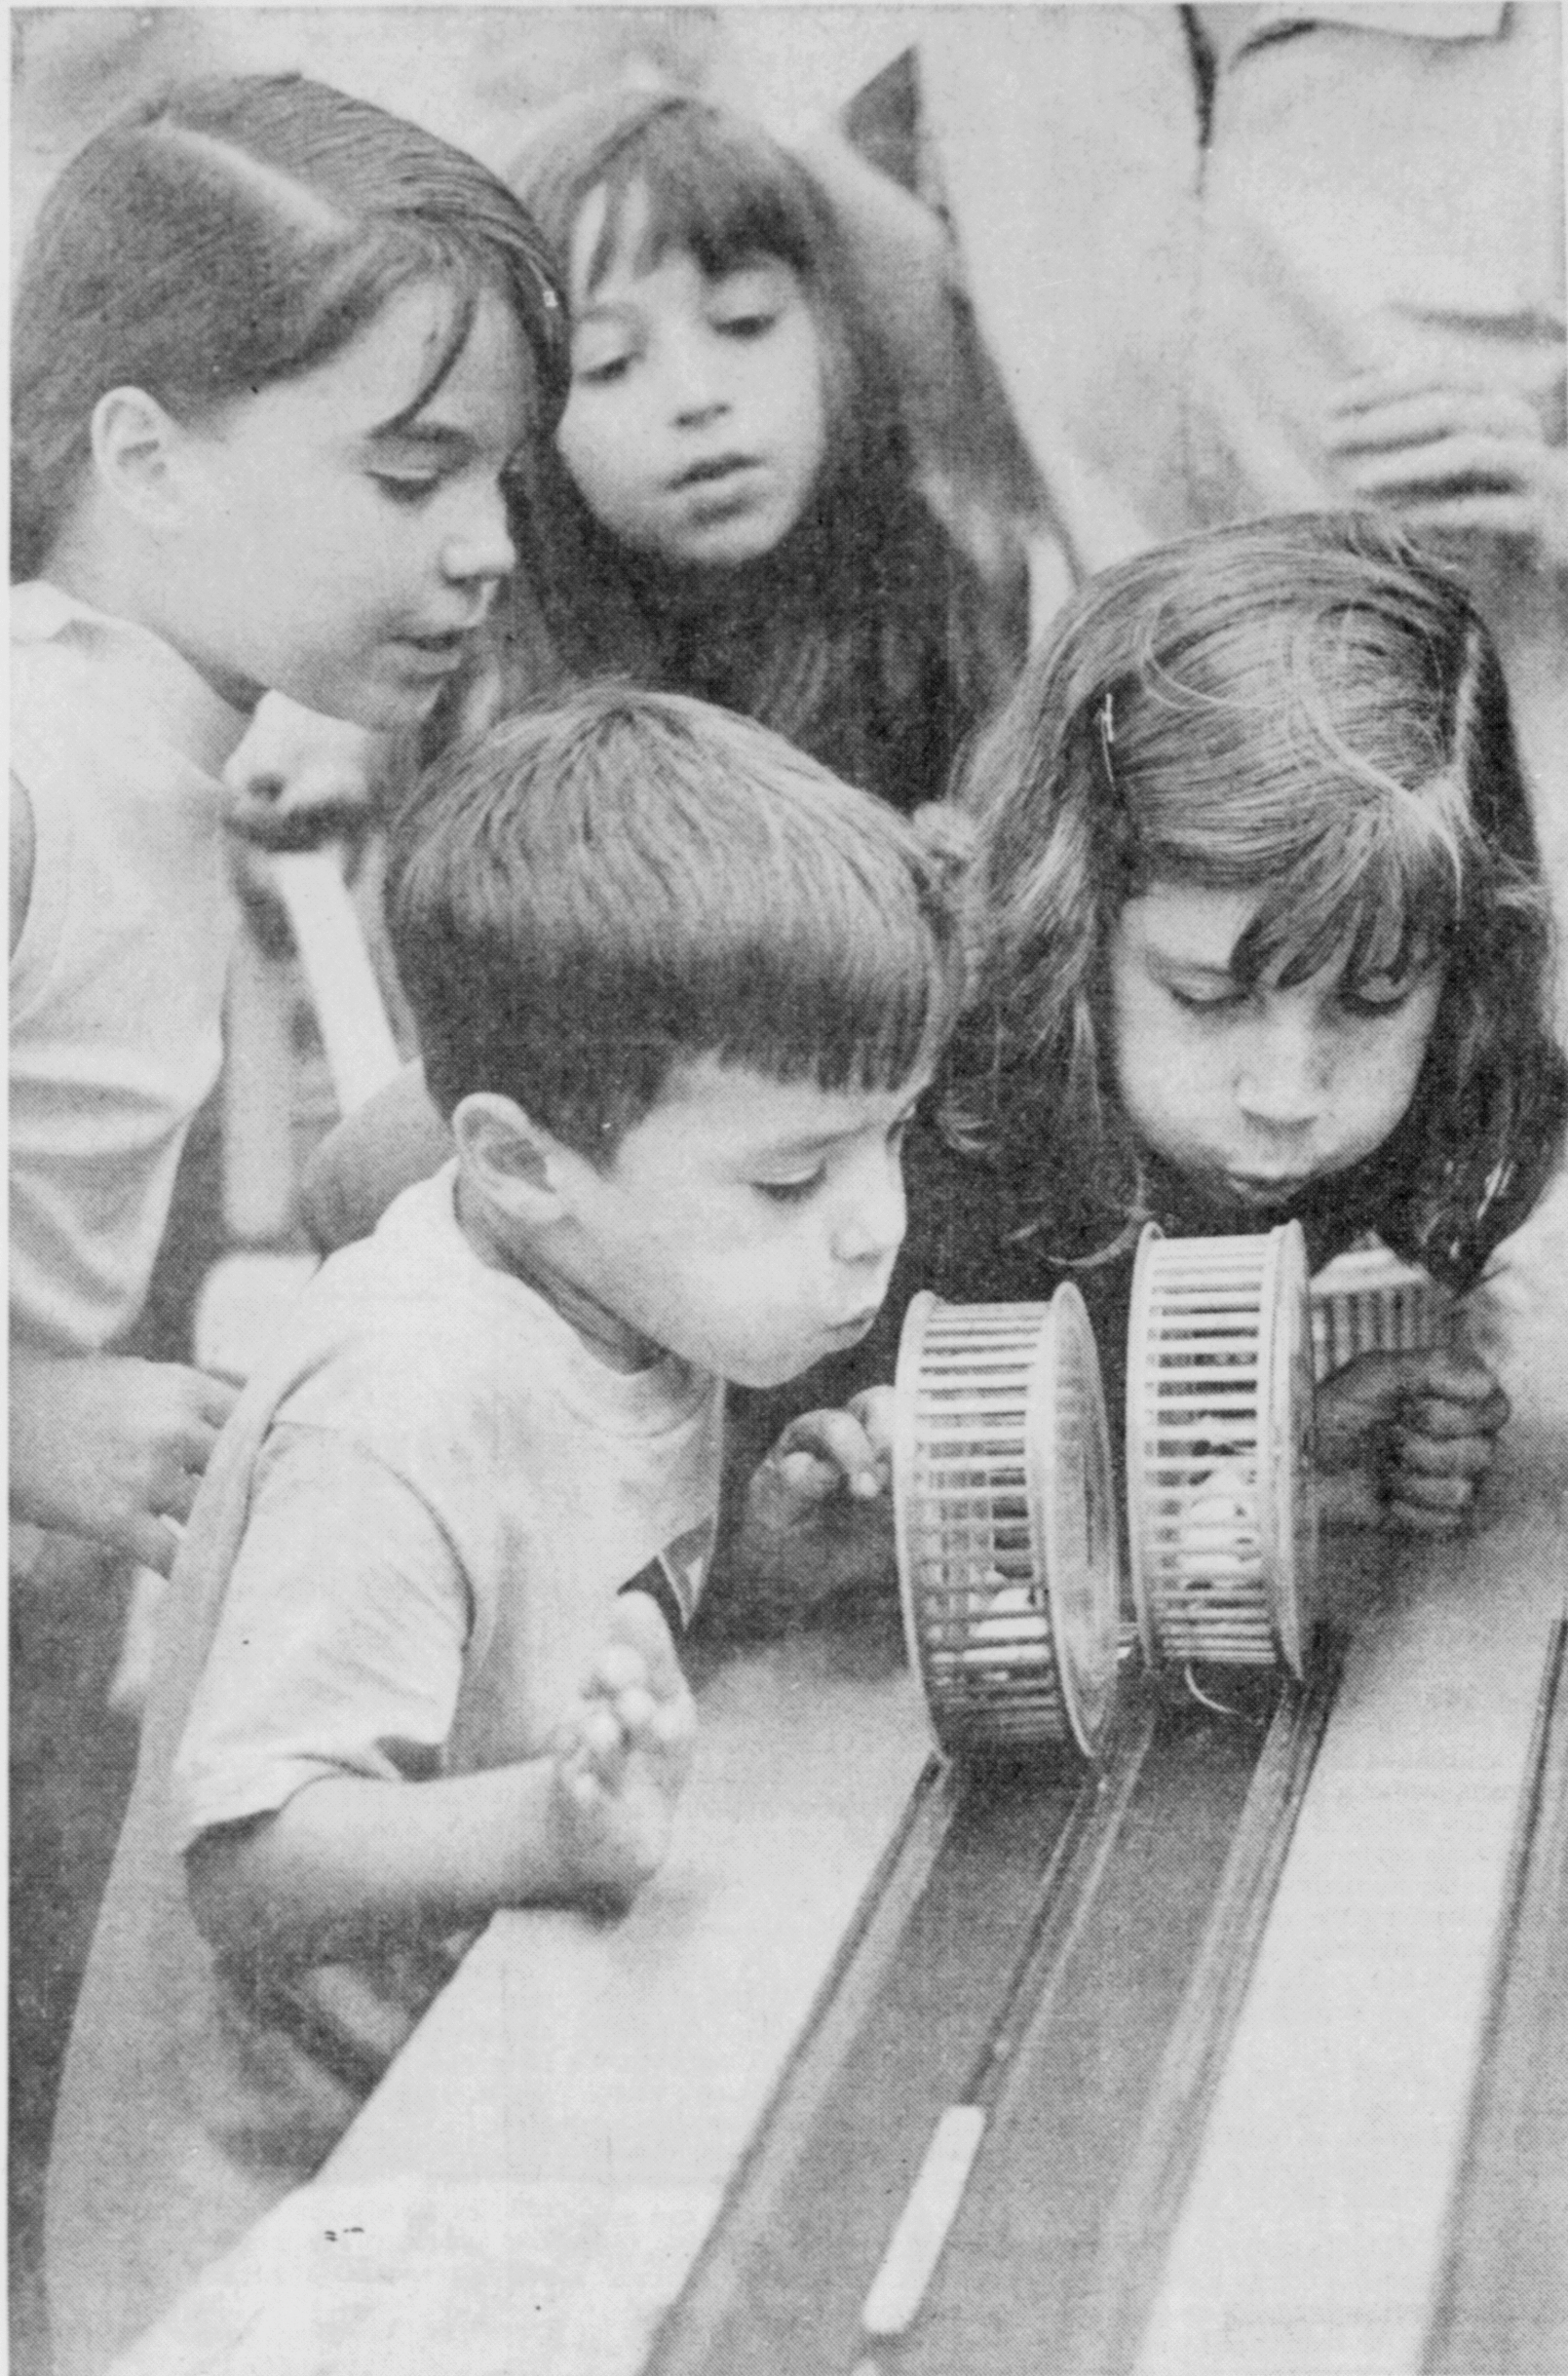

Sprinklers have been installed in the washrooms at the Lions Park Recreation Center, where a fire was started in a trash can July 1. The park district was reimbursed $600 in insurance from the loss.

Play equipment has been installed at Clearwater Park, and poles will soon be put in to keep cars from parking too close to the equipment.

Water fountains considered

Ever get thirsty while playing at or passing through a park? The park district is looking into the feasibility of installing water fountains similar to those at Chicago parks.

In Animal Kingdom rodent race

Andy is fastest furry friend

It was post time Saturday afternoon at Animal Kingdom pet shop, 1108 Algonquin Rd., as 50 furry creatures paraded to the starting gate for the first area Hamtrack race.

The race — which reputedly drew the fastest mice, hamsters and gerbils in three suburbs — was part of the 30th anniversary of Animal Kingdom stores. More than 200 spectators cheered their favorite rodent to victory.

Winner of the event was Andy the Hamster, owned by Diane Steffen of Des Plaines. Andy outdistanced the winners of the mouse and gerbil race — as well as his fellow hamsters — to win the title.

Mighty Mouse, owned by John Sejud of Des Plaines, swept past his fleet-footed competitors to cop first place in the mouse race. Rusty Gerbil, owned by Paul Bishop of Des Plaines, was the victor in the hamster competition.

First place winners received a $10 gift certificate and a ribbon. Diane also received a ribbon and a radio for her hamsters' grand victory.

The fastest time was turned in by Mighty Mouse, who completed the race in a blistering four minutes. Rusty Gerbil turned in the slowest time, finishing the course in 22 minutes.

The small animals paraded to the starting gate to the refrains of owner Bob Hoffman playing the call to the post on the kazoo.

The animals raced in heats, with four contestants running at a time. Owners were not allowed to touch their pets but could blow air at them. Winners of the individual heats competed for the title in each category.

Police unable to determine cause of youth's death

The body of an 18-year-old Des Plaines youth was found lying on the floor in a garage outside his home Monday afternoon.

He was identified as Brian Dunavant, 708 Laurel Ave. He was discovered about 1:20 p.m. by a neighbor, said Lt. Joseph Kozenczak of Des Plaines police.

Dunavant was taken to Holy Family Hospital, where he died after unsuccessful attempts to revive him.

Police and hospital officials were unable to determine the cause of death.

Police said the body was found fully clothed next to an automobile with the ignition turned off. No weapons were found and there were no cuts or bruises on the body, police said.

Police said Dunavant was a student and was living alone at the address at the time of his death. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dunavant had moved to South Carolina.

Neighbors told police the youth was seen Sunday night and appeared normal and in a good frame of mind. Investigation into the cause of death was under way, but police would not say whether suicide was suspected or foul play was involved.

The body was taken to the Cook County Morgue pending an autopsy.

Paving planned at River Trails ad building

Paving of the grassy area adjacent to the parking lot of the River Trails Dist. 26 administration building, 1900 E. Kensington Rd., Mount Prospect, will begin next month with the bill for the work to be picked up by the River Trails Park District.

The project originally was to include expansion of the parking lot and repaving of the driveway and entrance area with the school board and the park board to split the cost.

However, the school board last week decided not to participate in the project because the cost of its share of the work exceeded the limit it had set for the project.

Only one bid was received for the project from Robert R. Anderson Co. of Chicago at a price of $9,926. The cost breakdown showed a $5,517 price tag for the parking lot paving and $4,409 for repaving of the driveway and entrance area.

THE SCHOOL BOARD, which was to pay the cost of repaving the driveway and entrance area, had set a ceiling price of $3,000 for the work. When the bid came in over the limit, the board deemed that its budget priorities did not include making up the extra cost over $3,000 that would be needed for the work.

The park board agreed to assume its share of the cost and proceed with construction of the new parking lot. Marvin Weiss, park director, said although the school district will not be sharing the cost of the work, he still considers the venture a cooperative project between the two governing bodies because most of the parking lot will be located on school district land.

The new parking lot will double the capacity of the existing available parking space. At present the lot next to the school administration center accommodates about a dozen cars.

WEISS SAID HE did not know when the project will be completed. The paving will be done in conjunction with work planned for Tamarack Trails Park located east of the school administration office.

Two tennis courts will be installed at the park along with four to be installed at nearby Sycamore Trails Park at Kensington and Wolf roads. Weiss said the parking lot paving will take about two weeks to complete but installation of the tennis courts may take as long as eight weeks.

Weiss said the new parking lot will be accessible on Kensington Road from the existing parking lot driveway.

The youngster was identified as Jeffery Brzezinski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Brzezinski, of 1710 Estes Ave.

Chicagoan charged in indecent exposure

Police have arrested a Chicago man, Antonio F. Mostacci, 26, 7307 Fullerton Ave., in connection with an incident of indecent exposure Friday in Des Plaines.

Police charge Mostacci exposed himself to a 17-year-old Des Plaines girl near Forest and Second avenues.

Mostacci will appear Sept. 12, in the Des Plaines branch of Circuit Court.

Des Plaines police reports said the youngster was found in a toyroom in the basement of his home about 4:30 p.m.

The boy was taken to Lutheran General Hospital where a spokesman said he was pronounced dead at 5:15 p.m.

POLICE SAID the boy's mother found him choking and vomiting. She took the belt off and tried to give him mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

The boy's head was suspended from a three-foot high board that held the other end of the belt from a protruding nail. Police said there were six circular type bruises found on the left side of the boy's neck.

Police also were investigating suicide in the death of a Des Plaines woman, Marvlyn Frank, 56, who was found dead of apparent carbon-monoxide poisoning Sunday.

The woman was found by her husband lying in the back seat of their auto in the garage of their home at 1360 Dennis Pl., according to police reports.

New book tells history of train travel

One of America's largest and most venerable publishers, best known in recent years for its highway maps and atlases, has published its first complete book about America's rail passenger system, "Travel by Train."

The firm is Rand McNally & Co., which began business in 1856 as a publisher of railroad tickets. For many years its principal customers were the railroads. It also published railroad maps, brochures and "dime novels" which were sold on trains by "butchers" going car to car.

"Today a whole generation has grown to adulthood with almost no acquaintance with train travel — and what they have missed!" That quote is from the preface of the book, authored by veteran rail writer Edward J. Wojtas. And it's the premise of the book: That Americans need to be re-educated about rail travel.

WOJTAS TELLS the story of the rise and fall of America's great rail passenger system — then of its regeneration under Amtrak. He begins with a primer and a glossary, explaining, for instance, differences between Metroliner and Turboliner, bedroom and roomette, conductor and passenger service representative.

The author also gives basics on how to make reservations and buy a ticket, family fare plans and group travel, how much luggage you can take and pets as passengers or as baggage. Then he discusses all of the major Amtrak routes, often stop by stop. The illustrations include maps and many of his own pictures.

Canadian and Mexican and non-Amtrak services — even the short, sight-seeing lines — are described. The 122-page paperback edition is on sale ($1.95) at Chicagoland bookstore.

FOLLOW THE SUN and camp on a Florida beach where you can enjoy a simple waterfront life and still be close enough to the vacation city of St. Petersburg and its many fun attractions.

Pack up for St. Pete — where camping is plentiful

by MARTY GOLUB

St. Petersburg, Fla. — For many families the ideal vacation is a camping trip — back to nature and the simple life. Some like it primitive with the whispering of the night as background music while sleeping under a spreading oak. Others like the luxury of a foam mattress in a shining camper, lulled to sleep by the hum of the air-conditioner.

With St. Petersburg the vacation target the camping destination is easy, because within a 50-mile radius of the sun-coast city there are several fine locations.

Close in — reached by the Pinellas Bayway just south of the city, is historical Fort DeSoto Park on the Gulf of Mexico. There are 223 landscaped camping sites . . . $3.50 without electric and $4 with electric hookup.

THE SCENIC Pinellas County historical park covers 884 acres, with seven miles of waterfront for boating and fishing, three miles of beaches approved for swimming. Conveniences include picnic tables and grills, rest rooms, showers, washers and dryers, and two lighted all-night fishing piers.

A picturesque old fort with its original 1898 gun placements, observation walks, powder rooms, cavernous dynamo rooms, and data booths dominates the park.

KOA Kampground, on the north side of St. Petersburg, is one of a national chain of parks. Its waterfront location is on an inlet from the Gulf of Mexico. Shady oaks line horseback and mini-bike trails. Fishing, boat launching ramp, recreation hall, swimming pool, and kiddie playground add to the family fun. There are hot showers, a general store, and coin laundry. Pets are allowed on leash. Rates — $5 for two per night; 50 cents each additional person.

Lake Seminole is a privately-owned park located midway between St. Petersburg and Clearwater on State Road 694. Recreation at this waterfront camping area includes boating, fishing, picnic tables and grills, horseshoes, volleyball and basketball. There are laundry facilities, showers, restrooms, and a central recreation hall. Rates $3 per car and four persons — 25 cents each additional person.

STATE PARKS within the 50-mile neighborhood, with camping facilities include: Hillsborough River, Myakka River, and Oscar Sherer. Small fees are charged.

Hillsborough River on U.S. Rte. 301, six miles southwest of Zephyrhills, has 130 sites with tables and grills, electric and water hookups. There are also vacation cabins, and youth tent areas.

Boats, canoes, and bicycles for rent; swimming, nature trails, picnicking, skin and scuba diving, and fresh water fishing all contribute to the family outing. Ice, camper supplies and grocery, sanitary dumping station . . . tubs, washers and dryers contribute to the ease of the vacation.

Myakka River, 17 miles east of Sarasota on Fla. Rte. 72 also offers complete camping fun with 76 sites. There are picnic tables and grills, electric and water. Fresh water fishing, guided tours, nature trails, museum exhibits, boats, canoes and bicycles for rent keep the whole family interested. There is also tent and trailer camping, vacation cabins . . . ice, camper supplies and groceries, washers, dryers and tubs.

Oscar Sherer park, two miles south of Osprey on U.S. Rte. 41 is another complete vacation facility within easy distance of St. Petersburg. Here is also picnicking, swimming, fishing (both salt and fresh water), a boat dock, nature trails, snacks and a youth tent area. There are 104 sites with tables and grills, electric and water hookups, boats and canoes for rent, camper supplies and groceries, ice, washers, and dryers, tent and trailer camping.

FROM ANY of the campgrounds it's an easy trip into St. Petersburg and the Gulf beaches to see the many area attractions.

Along St. Pete's downtown waterfront is North Shore Park with its softball field, lighted tennis courts and putting greens, and beach on Tampa Bay. Next door is the North Shore Beach and Pool complex — with olympic-sized heated pool, dressing rooms, sun deck, and more beach.

In this same general area is the Museum of Fine Arts with its nine modern exhibition galleries, and the St. Petersburg Historical Museum containing artifacts from around the world as well as general Florida and St. Petersburg history.

MGM's historic sailing ship, the Bounty exhibit, is moored in the Vinoy Basin next to the Historical Museum. This is the full-size replica used in filming "Mutiny On The Bounty."

The visitor is now on the approach to The Pier with its dramatic "upside down" pyramid designed building, housing a variety of restaurants, gift shops, and a fifth floor observation deck. Day and night fishing goes on the full length of the pier.

THE MUNICIPAL Marina is located on this same pier approach. Hundreds of privately owned sailboats and power boats are berthed here, as well as excursion boats offering sightseeing cruises and dinner-dance trips on Tampa Bay.

A short four blocks south from the marina . . . still on the colorful waterfront is another cluster of attractions . . . Al Lang Field, spring training ground for the St. Louis Cardinals and New York Mets.

Bayfront Center, auditorium-arena complex is adjacent to the ball park. This municipal entertainment facility serves many purposes — from circus shows and basketball tournaments in the arena, to Broadway productions and symphonies in the auditorium.

While in St. Pete the visitor will want to see world-famous Sunken Gardens — a floral showcase exhibiting a wide variety of exotic flowers and plant life in landscaped background. Two walk-in aviaries for both large and jewel-size birds, and small animal exhibits are stationed along the trails.

Attractions on the beaches include London Wax Museum, the Aquarium on St. Petersburg Beach; Tiki Gardens and Pueblo Village at Indian Rocks.

Finally — for more sun and swimming, there's the Municipal Beach at Treasure Island — right on the Gulf of Mexico; and for excitement the Stock Car Racing program at Sunshine Speedway Friday and Saturday nights all summer long is good clean fun for the entire family.

CHICAGO — Package tours appealing to budget-minded families who want to visit two of Central Florida's famous attractions — Walt Disney World and Sea World — are being offered by Eastern Airlines through mid-December.

"Orlando Night Jet Specials," based on new, low-fare night coach service and presented in cooperation with Flyfaire as tour operator and five leading hotels in Central Florida, feature a free first night if one checks into the hotel after 9:30 p.m.

Two full days at the amusement parks, with admission and a variety of rides and shows are included. Transfers between Orlando's jetport and the selected hotel and between the hotel and the amusement parks are provided, or the family may take the option of using a low-priced compact rental car during the visit.

PARTICIPATING hotels include the conveniently located Sheraton Olympic, 1776 House, Sheraton Inn, Quality Inn and Travelodge International, with prices ranging from $36 to $46 per person (based on double occupancy) for the three-night, two-day Walt Disney World package and from $33.75 to $43.75 for the alternate tour which offers one day each at Walt Disney World and Sea World. Meals are not included.

For children under 12 who share a room with their parents, the charges are $18 for the Walt Disney World tour and $14.25 for the combination Walt Disney World-Sea World package. Prices are slightly higher for those over 12 and under 18.

Ticket books for Walt Disney World include admission to the Magic Kingdom, transportation within the park and nine rides or attractions each day. At Sea World there is unlimited admission to all main attractions except the tower.

Those wishing to stay extra nights may do so for an extra charge of $8.88 to $12 per person.

From O'Hare International Airport, Eastern will operate a new nonstop night coach beginning June 20. Flight 457 will depart daily for Orlando at 9:10 p.m.

Regular roundtrip fare between Chicago and Orlando is $229.27 in first class and $177.27 in economy class. Fares for the new night coach service will be $177.27 in first class and $141.25 in coach. All fares include federal transportation tax and airport security charges.

Bergs of Arlington win Jamaica prize

They will receive a straw bag, crafted in Jamaica, and their names will be entered in the competition for a week's stay for two at the Montego Beach Hotel. The final choice for the Jamaica trip will be determined early next year.

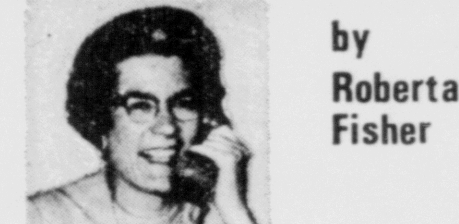

The first month's winner was John Schumacher of Mount Prospect. He won a set of pewter coasters.

Coupons to enter the Jamaica contest are published the last Tuesday of every month on The Herald travel pages.

Sea-worthy pleasure

NASSAU - PARADISE ISLAND, Bahamas — The fact that Bahamians call the glass-bottomed, sightseeing craft so popular with Nassau and Paradise Island visitors, bumboats, does not imply any lack of safety. The boats, which transport vacationers to the Sea Gardens for "in-depth" looks at fish and coral formations, are comfortable and highly stable.

HILL AND HOLLOW FOLK FEST

The seventh annual Hill and Hollow Folk Festival will be held Sept. 27-29, in the tiny Ozark hamlet of Powell, Mo., in McDonald County.

Craftsmen, artists, exhibitors — and just plain "gawkers" — show up every year. And, even though there are only about 30-plus souls in Powell, 7,000 to 10,000 people descend upon the little town each time the festival is held.

There are no motels in Powell, or restaurants, but the natives just tell folks to stay at motels in nearby communities.

And, as one Ozarker put it, "There's plenty of pasture to park in and a lot of creek water going by for the picnics and water fun folks enjoy."

In addition to the arts and crafts exhibits, there will be a bluegrass music jamboree, professional gospel singing by the Singing Goffs of Nashville, plus all that serene unspoiled Ozark scenery to enjoy.

A free folder is available to vacationers, artists and craftsmen by writing the Hill and Hollow Festival, Powell, Mo., 65730.

Safety tips for car vacation trip

This past week we've waved goodbye to two families on our block setting off on vacation trips by car.

In both cases these wise neighbors happen to be safety-conscious, but as each station wagon cruised down the street filled with its happy load of grinning, waving kids, we couldn't help think of the thousands of happy holidays that are ruined each year — some tragically — because proper safety precautions weren't considered along with the fun planning.

Of course, it stands to reason you'll have the car completely checked over — making sure tires and brakes are in top-notch condition, having the front end checked for alignment, engine put into purring condition, fan belts and cooling systems eased into good working order — and all those other items a good mechanic takes care of.

A GOOD friend of mine tells me that if you're going to use a trailer hitch for the first time, practice using it for at least one week before you leave on your trip.

The accident rate with passenger vehicles towing trailers is four times that of ordinary passenger cars, according to a leading automobile association.

Here are a few other safety tips for a happy driving vacation:

- Plan ahead. Pick up the maps for your journey well ahead of your departure date so you can mark your route. Appoint someone in the family to be a co-pilot who will be as familiar with the itinerary as the driver.
- Travel lightly. Take along the smallest possible amount of luggage. How would you like to be a little kid cramped in the back seat for hours with piles of suitcases and other baggage?

- Be physically fit. If you're coming down with a cold (or anyone else in the family is) or haven't quite recovered from a recent bout with the flu or some other illness, it's best to postpone the vacation — or plan something where you won't have to drive. Also, make sure the driver has plenty of rest the night before you take off.
- Leave rover home. Sure you love him. Sure he's part of the family. We love our Airedale too, but we've found (after a few riotous attempts) that she's really better off at her favorite kennel.

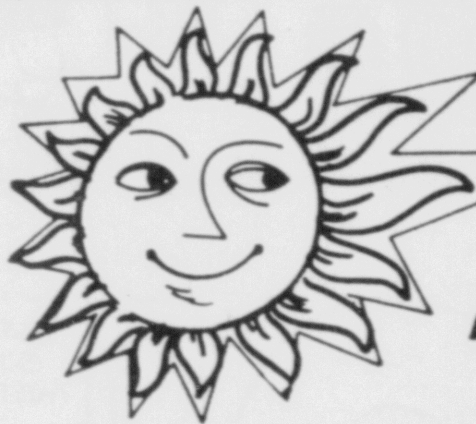

- Buckle up. Wear your safety belts at all times. That means everybody in the car.

Small children should be in their own protective devices — child seats or seat belts. There are a number of special infant bassinets and safety-tested car seats available through General Motors and Ford car dealers. They do have to be ordered ahead, however.

- Plan games and goodies. When our children were younger we always took plenty of time to prepare a "goodie pack" of special games, toys, puzzles and books to be passed out at regular intervals.

- Make frequent stops. Some of the most memorable moments in driving vacations we've taken through the years have been the times we've detoured down a quiet country road and stopped to

As I look back now, those brief moments suspended out of time, may have been the very best in any vacation trip we took by car.

Communication still a problem

NEW YORK — The NFL players' dispute with the owners went into its sixth week Sunday and, although both sides are deeply convinced they have made honest concessions, they really aren't any closer to agreement now, especially in their basic philosophies, than they were when the strike began.

One management spokesman claims the owners and players are more than $36 million apart. That sounds to me like someone simply throwing figures around. The spokesman, I notice, didn't bother furnishing an itemized breakdown.

On the other hand, some of the players cite Commissioner Pete Rozelle as the chief stumbling block and key issue, but I have to discount that pretty much also, particularly since one of the new proposals outlined this past weekend by the NFL Players' Association would enable Rozelle to keep virtually the same authority he has now.

No, I don't think this controversy hinges so much on money or on the definition of Pete Rozelle's actual powers as it does on mutual understanding, a quality which, rather sadly, has been conspicuously missing up to now.

I've listened to some of the owners and some of the players and, not surprisingly, I've heard each side make some good points and some which weren't so good. Personally, I think Bill Curry, the President of the Players' Association and center for the Houston Oilers, makes by far the most effective point of all.

The basic problem, he says, is there is no communication between the owners and the players. It was that way before the strike and it's the same way now. Bill Curry says this is the nub of the entire problem, what the strike is all about in fact. He's only 100 per cent right.

Let's look at baseball for a moment. Remember how enraged St. Louis Cardinals' owner Gussie Busch became two years ago during the baseball strike? He thought his players were ungrateful, asking for too much, and he gave them some colorfully implicit directions where to go. Whether or not he was right isn't at issue. The important thing was that he was cutting the lines of communication between himself and his ball players, and anytime an owner does that he's in trouble. Eventually, Busch came around though and had a change of heart. He realized by knocking his players, he was, in a sense, knocking himself.

Gussie Busch went completely the other way, and you can see the results for yourself. The Cards overcame a wretched start last year, made a great run and barely missed winning the NL East title by a game and a half. Right now, they're on top in their division by 2½ games. I talked to Gussie Busch about his trying it both ways. He smiled, and said this way is better.

Let's get back to Bill Curry now. "Sooner or later," he says, "the NFL must establish a relationship between the owners and the players. It has to do that to continue enjoying the success and prestige it has become so justifiably proud of."

"Look at conditions in our society today. There is a lack of communication between young and old; between the government and the people; between black and white, and between liberal and conservative. We share in this problem in the NFL."

"If there is a single word, one word, describing our problem with the owners then that word is 'communication,' or the lack of it. There is a communication gap between the owners and the players, and sooner or later a link has to be — must be — established."

Some NFL owners feel the players are trying to dictate to them. Bill Curry says that isn't the case at all.

"The owners take the view, 'Look, boy, don't tell us how to run our business,'" says Curry. "Is it so wrong for a young man to want some voice in his own destiny? He's not trying to disrupt any owner's business. None of us want that at all."

Right now, the owners and players are in the middle of a "cooling off period." On Aug. 27, just before it ends, a decision will be made by the players whether to continue striking or not.

Ultimately the strike will be settled, of course.

Hard feelings undoubtedly will remain between some players and owners and between some players who didn't cross the picket line and some who did.

Bill Curry knows this to be true and can only hope such resentment won't last long.

"I am a very strong believer in forgiveness," he says. "I think it's a critical aspect of an individual's personality. Where you disagree, you acknowledge that disagreement. After an agreement finally is achieved, though, you work together and accept the other individual as a human being. I think that's the way to live. This is my philosophy in life."

Pads pop and preps launch another football season

THE TOP SIGNAL CALLER at Hersey High School's opening day of football practice Monday is head coach Joe Gliwa, who runs the Huskies hopefuls through their initial drills.

LEARNING TO HIT. These Hersey football players go through the motions on the first day of practice Monday. Guts and determination are in evidence as much on opening day as they are later in the season. Head coach Joe Gliwa is preparing his team for a Mid-Suburban League title defense. Yes, WFL also has some problems

by MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — Do you hear a creaking noise? I do, and something tells me it's the sound of the not yet one year-old World Football League beginning to give at the seams.

First there was The Big Lie by the Philadelphia Bell and the subsequent public confession that all isn't gold that glitters nor are all those sitting in the seats necessarily paying customers.

Now come the owners of the Florida Blazers confirming they are thinking of moving their ball club from Orlando to Atlanta. This would be the fourth city the club has moved to in seven months, and right on the heels of this report, there's another one that the New York Stars are up for sale and will be sold sometime in the next few weeks.

Birmingham is one WFL franchise doing well. Memphis, Southern California and Jacksonville also are keeping their heads above water. But Hawaii, Houston, Portland, Philadelphia and Orlando are experiencing considerable difficulty.

The Detroit Wheels are in trouble also. So far, they've been nothing more than a brand new set of flat tires. The Wheels are 0-6, never having won a single game in their history yet, and there is talk of them winding up in Charlotte, N.C. before the year is out. Anytime a WFL club is in trouble, it starts looking toward Charlotte. Who knows, maybe that's because a branch of the U.S. mint operated there for nearly a quarter century.

Anyway, the Detroit Wheels are using Ypsilanti, Mich. as their headquarters now, and one of the things that hurts them is they can't play in Detroit Stadium because the National Football League's Lions got there first. What hurts more is that they aren't even filling the 22,000-seat field they have in Ypsilanti.

The club isn't taking much in at the gate and is losing every time out on the field. There is no better way to go broke, and if you ask Sonny Grandelius, the general manager of the Wheels, if he's concerned, his answer is what you'd expect it to be — yes.

"We've compounded our problems," he says, "because this is a club which began with 33 owners who put up a certain amount of money and then were going to have a public sale of stock. The public sale of stock never materialized, so consequently our losses will be that much greater to each individual owner. It's a simple case of mathematics — anytime you're spending more than you're making, the money has to come from some place."

Yes, but where? The situation could get worse for the Wheels. They are one of the few WFL clubs which hasn't signed any NFL players for the next year.

"One reason we have not signed any of those players is because we do not have the financial resources to do it," says Grandelius. "I've always operated with integrity. I'm not going to promise someone something that I can't deliver."

You get an idea of what the economic situation is with the Wheels by a story Grandelius tells about one of his earlier meetings with the team's owners.

"We were talking about pre-game camp, and I said we should have it at someplace like Eastern Michigan University where they have the necessary dormitory facilities, locker rooms and so forth," says Grandelius.

"One of our owners piped up and said, 'well, why don't you put the players out on Belle Isle?' That is a city-owned area, and I said there weren't any accommodations available there. He said, 'well, why don't you put 'em up in tents? It would be just like camping out and the players would have a great time.'"

"So I said, well, how are you going to feed 'em, how are they going to wash, how are they going to shave, and he says, 'oh, I didn't think of that!'"

"We would've been the laughing stock of the league if we had made our players pitch tents and camp out," Grandelius concludes.

True enough, but right then and there the WFL could have reached instant parity with the NFL.

It would've had a strike on its hands, too.

BUFFALO GROVE MEN'S league was well represented by this foursome Sunday. This quartet finished third in the 25th annual Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap Golf Tournament. Presenting the trophies is

Koehler has firm grip on Raceway Park lead

With the stock car racing season drawing into the final month of the season at Raceway Park in Blue Island, Bud Koehler, the 53-year-old phenom from Blue Island, appears to have a stranglehold on the season's track title.

With only three major championship races remaining on the schedule, the only thing that could thwart Koehler in his quest for his ninth track title would be mechanical difficulties that would drop him out of the money in all three events.

Conant launches practice in golf

Golf practice for this year's Conant High School golf team starts today. All freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors wishing to try out for the team are to meet at the school in the east parking lot today at 10 a.m.

The first practice is scheduled for Thursday, Aug. 22 at noon at Hilldale Country Club.

Koehler won his other Raceway track titles in 1949, 1952, 1954, 1957 and 1964, 1966 and 1967 and 1972, a year in which he won 24 feature races. His closest pursuer this year is Jerry Kemperman, also of Blue Island, who is the only driver still retaining a chance to beat Koehler for the crown.

Jerry Vallow of East Hazelcrest is still leading the race for the Super Six crown, followed closely by Tom Nielsen of Oak Lawn. Both of these drivers have shown enough talent to compete in the Late Model class next season. Dave Urewicz is well in front in the competition for the Hobby Stock track title, followed by John Kary and Jim Weltmeyer.

LATE MODEL DRIVERS will compete Saturday and Sunday nights, Aug. 24-25, in 30-lap feature races, with the Super Sixes in a 20-lap headliner and the Wild Hobby Stocks in a 15-lap main event, plus a 12-lap consolation race. Heat races in all classes will round out the weekend schedule with a Demolition Derby capping Sunday night's program.

Davidson's leagues turn order into sports chaos

by BILL SCHOLL
(First of Three Related Articles)
Those handy little pocket calculators came on the market just in time. Now Joe Fan has at least a fighting chance to keep some sort of tabs on the mind-boggling explosion of professional sports teams.

Lured by the promise of that big dollar sign in the sky, pro sports franchises are proliferating at a rate previously reserved exclusively for rabbits.

At last count, no less than 147 teams spread around in six sports were in various stages of operation. About one-third of these are less than two years old and about 80 per cent are losing money.

Now with the World Football League (WFL) off the ground, pro football has the most prolific of all sports with 38 clubs. Hockey has 28, basketball 26, baseball, 24, while tennis has 16 and soccer 15.

What a difference from, say, 15 years ago when the list was a cozy collection of 42 or so in only four sports.

Then every school kid on the block had a working knowledge of every team and, in season, could recite the names of most of the players. Today those who care can't even begin to keep track of all the team nicknames.

They are overwhelmed by Bears, Bulls, Lions, Tigers, Rams, Colts, Broncos, Bruins, Dolphins, Whalers, Gators, Lobsters and White Caps as well as Eagles, Orioles, Flamingos and Penguins.

There are also Cowboys, Indians,

Gary Davidson

Chiefs, Braves and Redskins; Angels, Saints and even Fighting Saints; Astros, Cosmos, Comets, Stars and North Stars; Jets, Mets, Nets and Sets; Pirates and Raiders and assorted extras such as Loves, Strings, Triangles, Atoms, Quakes and Aztecs, as well as such singular names as Sun, Storm, Fire and Bell.

What is behind the siren call of pro sports that causes men to fall over each other in an endless rush to buy team franchises?

First, there is the excitement and glamor radiated by sports. To become a part of the inner workings and rub elbows with assorted heroes on a first-name basis is a longing of countless frustrated jocks with money.

Second reason for the explosion of sports franchises, little known to the public that ultimately foots the bill, is a series of intricate rulings by the Internal Revenue Service enabling sports entrepreneurs to write off their losses against other income. Often this reduces their real out-of-pocket losses to nothing.

Many new owners go in fully expecting to take a financial bath at the outset, but hoping for better years ahead. Some drown in red ink before those better years arrive, if ever, but the strangest part is that most still manage to come out bent, but unbroken.

That's because there always is a lineup of monied jocks waiting outside the door to pick up the franchise and bail out the latest victim. And franchises almost invariably escalate in selling price no matter how dismally they have done on the balance sheet.

Bob Short's recent profit of a cool million dollars on the sale of the Texas Rangers should renew the faith of every other owner in pro sports. If Short can accomplish that on the track record of the one-time Washington Senators, it's obvious the Mother Lode hasn't been mined out yet.

Although sometimes it seems as though new teams sprout from the ground as if by magic, the key factor is the formation of new leagues. Young Gary Davidson is a prime mover in this area. Once the Californian swings into action, the gathering of new owners and clubs to match is little more than a formality.

Davidson is the Johnny Appleseed of pro sports. He launched the American Basketball Association to challenge the NBA, put together the World Hockey Association to unmonopolize hockey from the NHL, and now is a year into his biggest venture, the World Football League.

While the established leagues dole out new franchises at a painfully slow pace, Davidson tosses entire new leagues into the picture and turns everything upside down.

Davidson, a 39-year-old Newport Beach attorney, has shaken pro sports by his ability to create new leagues strong enough to challenge the entrenched establishment.

Although he comes on like a prep school product with old money behind him, Davidson is a tough, street-wise product of Compton, Calif.

"Sports kept me out of jail," Davidson told one biographer. "In order to play sports, I had to have good grades. I got them."

His playing was good enough to make him a four-letter man (football, basketball, track and tennis) and his grades were good enough for UCLA and law school.

His system is deceptively simple. He creates a new league simply by calling a press conference — and always awards himself the first franchise. Other would-be owners flock to buy franchises of their own. Always the deal includes installing Davidson as league president at a salary befitting his lifestyle.

His law firm is also assured of the new league's business — likely to be formidable as old leagues contest claim-jumping, player-raids and the other tactics of interleague warfare.

With the number of new teams coming into being, competition is fueling player salaries to record heights. The scramble for talent suddenly intensifies, and Davidson becomes richer. His profit doesn't come from a well-operated club, but from an early sale of the franchise or two he always takes out for himself at the outset.

Davidson's friends often profit too. When the WFL was spawned last August, he presented a franchise to Cleveland promoter Nick Mileti who wasn't about to buck helmets with Browns-owner Art Modell. Mileti promptly sold his rights to Chicagoan Tom Origer and turned a $50,000 paper expense into a fast profit in the neighborhood of $400,000.

Indiana team advances from legion tournament

STEVENS POINT, Wis. — A walk with the bases loaded and a run-producing single in the eighth inning gave Rockport, Ind., a 6-4 win over Bowling Green, Ky., and the Great Lakes Regional American Legion baseball tournament title Sunday night.

It was the second victory of the day for Rockport over Bowling Green in the double elimination meet and sends the team on to the Legion's World Series at Roseburg, Ore., beginning Thursday.

Lynn Partridge drove in what proved to be the winning run with his bases loaded infield single after Jeff Bullington walked to force in the tying run.

Bowling Green had taken a 5-3 lead with two runs in the seventh after Rockport had taken a 3-2 lead in the sixth on a three-run homer by L. J. Seamahorn. The winning pitcher was Jim Schmidt who came on in relief in the seventh. The loser was Bowling Green reliever Bill Payne.

It will be Rockport's first trip to the Legion's national finals. Rockport and Bowling Green split four games during the regular season.

Rockport's only loss in five games here was 2-1 to Bowling Green last Thursday. But Rockport came back in Sunday's first game to hand Bowling Green its first loss, 8-3, behind the excellent relief pitching of Pat Dawson and a three-run homer by Greg Tooley.

Dawson came on in relief of Rockport starter Scott Doerner in the top of the sixth inning with the bases loaded and three runs already in to tie it at 3-3.

Dawson struck out the next two batters to get out of the inning and allowed Bowling Green just one hit the rest of the way to gain the victory.

In the bottom of the sixth Greg Tooley belted a three-run homer over the 330 foot mark in left field to put Rockport ahead to stay. Kim Kirby was the starter and loser for Bowling Green.

Top women bowling pros visit suburbs Sept. 29

Professional women bowlers will make their first appearance in Chicagoland in several years this fall to compete in the $75,000 Brunswick Women's World Open, the second richest tournament in the history of the Professional Women Bowlers Association (PWBA).

Brunswick Deerbrook Lanes, located at the Deerbrook Mall in suburban Deerfield, will host the week-long tournament which is scheduled to get underway Sunday, Sept. 29, with a pro-am event. The finals on Saturday, Oct. 5, will be televised nationally by the CBS television network.

The hour long telecast will feature the top four finalists meeting in a stepladder format. Number four will meet number three with the winner meeting the second ranking bowler. The winner of that match will meet the top seeded bowler in the championship match.

The announcement of the Brunswick Women's World Open will now give the Chicago area both the Men's World Open, with a $100,000 prize fund, and the Women's event. The Brunswick World Open for men is scheduled for its fourth renewal Nov. 10-16 at Northern Bowl in suburban Glendale Heights with the finals broadcasted on Saturday, Nov. 16.

The Brunswick Women's World Open is expected to attract a field of 192 professional female bowlers including an array of foreign champions. The bowlers will be shooting for a $10,000 first prize. Second place is worth $5,000; third $3,500 and fourth $2,500.

Last January Brunswick sponsored the $85,000 Brunswick Red Crown Classic in Baltimore, the richest tournament in the history of the PWBA. It was the first PWBA event to be nationally televised.

PRESENTING SECOND-PLACE trophies to the American Can team is Bob Paddock Jr., son of Robert Y. Paddock Sr. — founder of the Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap Golf Tournament. American Can captured second with a 300 net total, six strokes behind

PUNCHING HIS APPROACH to the 18th green is Don Wind, who played for DeSoto in the Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap Golf Tournament Sunday. Wind shot a 96, but an 82 with handicap. His team finished with 334 strokes and 20th place in the 36-team tourney at Palatine Hills.

THESE THINGS HAPPENED THIRTEEN CENTURIES BEFORE THE BIRTH OF CHRIST (Part II)

Sinoweh, now believing in one God, turns against the new Pharaoh Horemheb and is banished from Egypt.

Pharaoh Horemheb: What are the charges against this man?

Chief Priest: He has publicly spoken against Pharaoh, he has belittled Pharaoh's victories in Syria and the land of the Hittites. He has blasphemed against the gods and committed other acts of treason without number.

Pharaoh Horemheb: Once we stood together before this throne and you spoke up for my life. Is there anyone here who will speak up for this man? (None speaks up). You will have to speak for yourself Physician.

The Physician Sinoweh: Not for myself, Sir, but for one whose memory you've tried to wipe out, whose very name you've tried to destroy, for Akhenaten.

Pharaoh Horemheb: Do you flaunt your treason in my face? That name is forbidden. Take care Physician or you will...

Sinoweh: Will? Will what you will. You will go to war and win a battle. You will conquer and not know it is defeat. You will raise Egypt to glory and watch her die. We live in the twilight of our world, Horemheb, and you will be its sunset. Nations rise only to fall. Kings build mighty monuments only to have them crumble into dust. Glory flees like a shadow. All these things have the seeds of death in them. Only a thought can live. Only a great truth can grow and flourish and a truth cannot be killed. It passes in secret from one man's heart to another. It is given in a mother's milk to her child.

Pharaoh Horemheb: Are you trying to tell me that you will fight against me?

Sinoweh: Oh, you will win that too for if you fail to silence me you know what I will do.

Pharaoh Horemheb: What will you do Physician?

Sinoweh: I will go among the people and try to answer the questions that burden their hearts. I will go to them as they labor by the rivers, to the porters on the docks, to the smiths by their bellows to the slaves under their yokes... and I will save.

A man cannot be judged by the color of his skin, by his clothes, his jewels, or his triumphs, but only by his heart: a good man is better than a bad man, justice is better than injustice, he who uses mercy is superior to him who uses violence - though the latter call himself Pharaoh and make himself master of the earth. We have but one master, the God who made us all. Only his truth all men are equal. No man is alone.

Herald opinion

Officials must fight flooding

Rep. Jack B. Williams, who is not exactly a household word in the Northwest suburbs even though his state house district includes a portion of Des Plaines, has come up with a two pronged attack on a serious suburban problem — flooding.

Williams says flooding can only be curbed if, (1) there is funding of massive water control projects, and (2) restrictions are imposed on building in flood plain areas.

The representative revealed this plan of attack recently when residents of west suburban Leyden Township assembled to hear Williams and other assorted flooding experts speak about the problem.

Of course, there is nothing new in any of this: local and regional planners discovered some time ago that flooding in the suburbs is caused by too much water with nowhere to stop but in suburban basements; and unrestricted construction of new homes in flood plains which were known by farmers out here 100 years ago is going to mean wet living rooms.

What makes Williams' approach of interest here, however, is not what he said but the very fact that it is Williams who brings up the matter of flooding.

Public official Jack Williams has a unique perspective to the problem of flooding. As both a member of the Illinois Legislature and the mayor of Franklin Park, Williams can thus speak at the same time for the two levels of local government which have done the least to alleviate suburban flooding.

The Illinois legislature has done almost nothing in the way of solid land use planning which would restrict indiscriminate building on flood plains. The General Assembly seems unmoved by the notion that good land use planning — backed up by stiff laws — is the first step toward intelligent flood control.

And as a suburban mayor, Williams must know that it is the competitive, conflicting nature of suburban governments which often leads to building and zoning plans which pay no heed to the resulting flooding of neighboring suburbs.

Suburban flooding can be solved, but our mayors and legislators (or use the singular if you're dealing with Williams), cannot point to Washington or the Governor's office for solutions.

The best solutions rest with the legislature when they get around to good land planning, and with local suburban governments when they get around to cooperating on a regional basis.

'We survived Euell Gibbons' ulcer'

And now — a potpourri of the news.

Please don't tell me that's a silly way to start a column because I think so, too, but I'm leaving on vacation pretty soon and have to clean off my kitchen table, or as we columnists say, "desk." Columnists leaving on vacation always clean off their desks by writing about the clutter, the theory being that if something happens to you on vacation and your desk is a mess, somebody else might write the mess away and that could be posthumously embarrassing.

So now — a mishmash of the news.

Item: The entire world was impressed with the smooth transition of our government from a Nixon to a Ford administration, the feat made possible by our Constitution and Euell Gibbons. News of his ulcer came about a week before Nixon's resignation, and any nation that can stand firm upon learning that its health food leader has an ulcer is conditioned to withstand anything.

Health food buffs pointed out that it wasn't wild hickory nuts that caused the ulcer, but too much aspirin ingested for his arthritis. Which gives us the knowledge that wild hickory nuts do not cause ulcers, but neither do they prevent arthritis and I can quit my nut hunt. I will also quit boiling plantain weed because it tastes terrible and stinks up the whole house.

Item: A guy in England grew a four-and-one-half pound tomato, encouraging its growth by fitting it with stereo headphones and playing music to it all day long. Since I too am a tomato grower this year, I also fitted my biggest beefsteak with a headset and turned on the music. Four tomato worms fell dead. Which leaves us with the knowledge that "Britannia, Rule the Waves," will kill tomato worms, but headphones leave pockmarks on your tomato.

Item: I forgot to pay my telephone bill last month because I just found it under a household hints column that says boiling plantain weed is a good way to rid your house of spiders because they can't stand the smell. I know, I know.

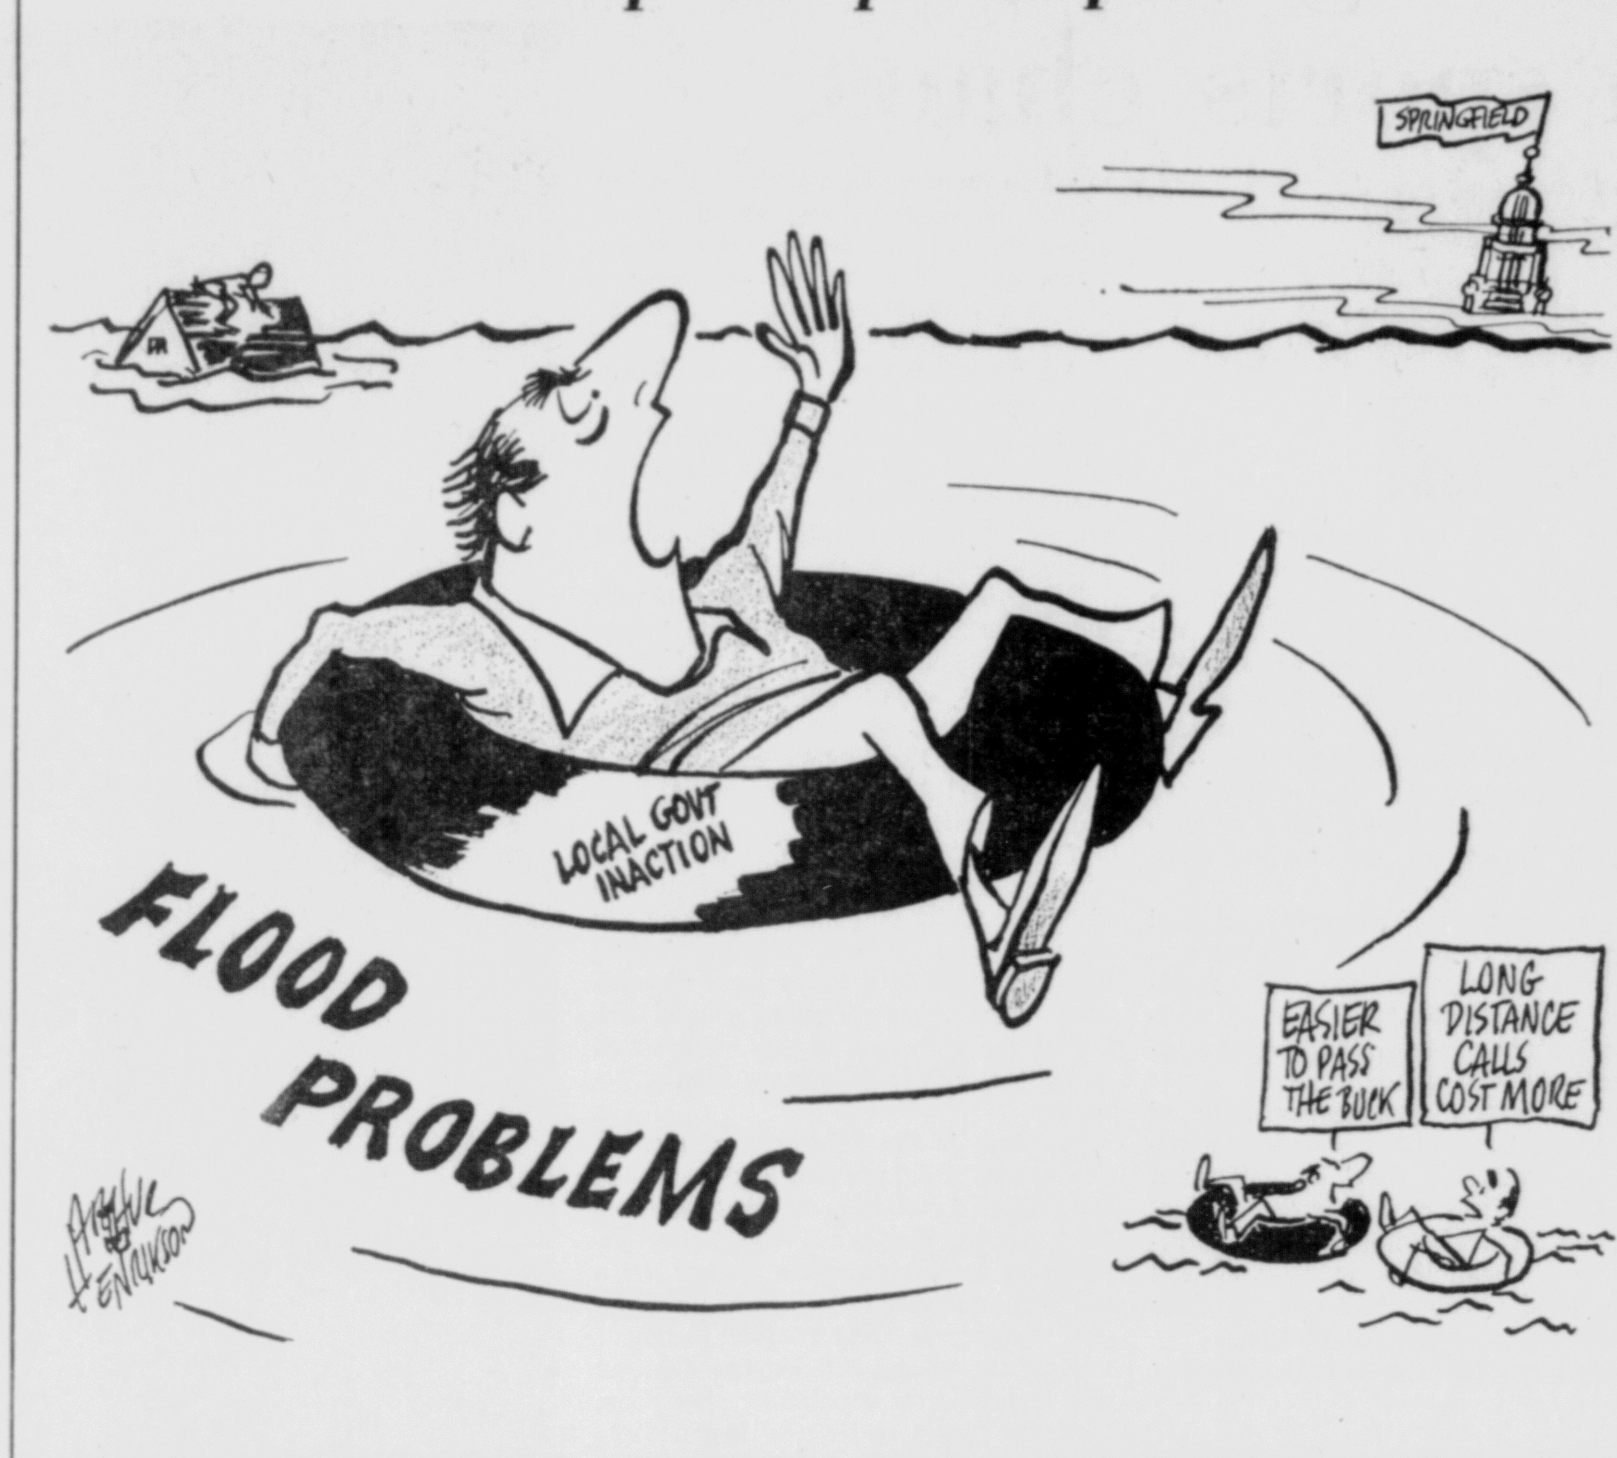

Dorothy Meyer

Item: A school teacher in the East is suing to get her job back after she was fired for posing for a nude magazine. I don't see what nudity has to do with being a good school teacher; my daughter is a very good teacher and she frequently tears her clothes off after a rough day on the playground with 47 first and second graders. However, she usually waits until she gets in the house.

Item: Under the stuff that's under the phone bill, there's a reminder that a Mother of Twins club wants me to give a talk at the annual MOT convention in October. They booked me 18 months in advance and now I wonder if they thought I was in such great demand — or did they give me 18 months in which to have twins and qualify as a convention speaker? I must get at it — the speech, of course — as soon as I get back.

Item: Goodbye.

'Townships show concern'

I would like to commend The Herald in its position relative to townships and their support of mental health services.

My personal experience has been with Elk Grove and Schaumburg Townships. I would like to compliment Township Supervisors, Richard Hall of Elk Grove Township and Vernon Laubenstein of Schaumburg Township, both of whom have demonstrated serious concern for their community by their consistent and sincere support of mental health programs. They have recognized the need for expanded human services and have dedicated supported agencies such as ours, so that their constituency could receive the help many of them so desperately need.

Supporters at the township level of government have always been acutely concerned for the welfare of their people, whether it be in the areas of housing, public assistance, issuance of food stamps, programs benefiting senior citizens, or the much disputed funding of mental health programs and facilities. There is no question in my mind that our townships are providing an invaluable service to the community and it is inconceivable to me that any group could object to their functioning.

Is there not a member of the group which is most vehemently opposed to federal revenue sharing funding of various mental health programs who at one time or another, either directly or indirectly, has found it necessary to avail themselves of the services provided by those agencies? If not, you may find some comfort in knowing that your needs could also be met at an agency such as ours, despite your political views on township spending of federal revenue sharing funds. Thank goodness our commitment is and always will be to the human needs of the people within our service area and not to the exploitation of a political tool just for the sake of making a point.

Community mental health centers are not really a new thing, but the recent public awareness and acceptance is new and, in most cases, emotionally fulfilling. Many of the progressive communities have acknowledged their responsibility towards their citizenry by establishing and/or contributing to the support of letters to the editor

community mental health agencies, thus enabling the patient to receive competent professional help within close proximity of his home. For those persons at high risk of community extrusion, this may be effected through medication management and/or intensive psychotherapy for a very nominal and often non-existent fee. Hospitalization or institutionalization, as was true in the past, is no longer the only alternative. And gone is the once

Victorian shroud of secrecy, shame or disgrace which surrounded those persons who exhibited what is now considered to be one of the commonest of human weaknesses . . . emotional stress expressed in a variety of ways.

The purpose of writing this letter has not been directed towards justifying the support received through federal revenue sharing funds. One need only recognize the fact that our caseload has more than tripled since receiving our initial allocation from the townships. Providing sufficient staff persons to service this dramatic increase would have been virtually impossible without the aid of the federal revenue sharing funds. Is any further clarification necessary?

Blasts highway repairs

Dear Governor Walker:

I heard you talk recently at a dinner meeting of the Financial Executives' Institute in Chicago. I was very much impressed with your businesslike approach. However, I would like to comment on one aspect of this state's responsibilities which does not appear to be run in a very businesslike manner. This pertains to road maintenance and construction.

Having lived previously and traveled extensively in other states, I feel that many of the roads here and the manner in which they are maintained and constructed are a disgrace to the State of Illinois. There seems to be inadequate concern for both the flow of traffic and the safety of the public.

Many existing heavily traveled roads are in a deplorable and extremely dangerous condition. Northwest Highway, a main artery through Palatine, is just one example. There are chuckholes several feet wide and many inches deep. Cars dodging these holes are continually subject to all types of accidents, including head-on collisions.

Roads which are under construction remain under construction for years. Portions are then opened up before completing shoulders, curbs, etc., leaving deep drop-offs. These and other extremely dangerous obstacles are left for years. An example of this is Algonquin Road running through Schaumburg, which has been under construction for several years. I travel this particular road each day on the way to work, and it certainly appears that with any amount of effort at all, this road could have easily been completed years ago. Furthermore, many extremely hazardous conditions could have been easily avoided during construction.

On many heavily traveled streets, both new and old, and even on throughways, there are no painted lines to separate lanes, or center double lines to help avoid head-on collisions. In too many instances where lines have been painted, the paint is deteriorated and is not readily visible. (Why not use reflectors instead of paint?)

Equipment and workers disappear from job sites on torn up roads for long periods of time to tear up other roads, the reconstruction of which will in turn come to a standstill. It appears that contracts are continually given with no time limits involved and that there are no penalties on the contractors for late performance. I do not purport to know the cause for this failure to perform but I would have to assume that it is at least partially due to apathy, incompetence and/or negligence on the part of the officials responsible.

I completely agree with the sentiments of Mr. John F. Mitchell of Motorola in the letter he recently sent to you. A copy of the newspaper article on this letter is attached. The offices at which I work are across the street from the Motorola offices.

This appears to be a universal major criticism on the part of everyone I talk to, but apparently not enough people make themselves heard. This is in part due to confusion as to whether the responsibility is the state's, county's or the township's, and the buck seems to get passed freely between them.

I can assure you that positive remedial action on your part would be a most appreciated and popular gesture.

'A politician'

'Ford shows shrewdness'

by ARNOLD B. SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democrats who might be tempted to accept Lyndon Johnson's assessment of Gerald Ford as a man who played too much football without a helmet better take a new look — and listen — at the new President.

Ford demonstrated in his address to the joint session of Congress that he is a rather shrewd politician, and in the present circumstances not one willing to accept the conventional wisdom that says his party is going to take a bath in the November elections.

The President signalled his political know-how with two references in his speech to Congress. The first was his remark, almost an aside, that he wasn't going to give a State of the Union address because "God willing, I will have at least three chances to do that." The emphasis here is on "at least" — which means Ford may very well be seeking election in 1976, and which says to Republicans as well as Democrats "don't get any ideas about running over me."

The second was his "first specific request" — a call to voters to "Support your candidates, congressmen and senators, Democrats or Republicans, conservative or liberal, who consistently vote for tough decisions to cut the cost of government, restrain federal spending and bring inflation under control."

It does not take deep meditation to realize that the President was not talking about Democrats and liberals when he urged support for budget-cutters. He was talking primarily about his own GOP, especially the band of orthodox Republican loyalists he led in the House.

In the spate of mid-Watergate predictions about the prospects for this year's election, most of which foresaw heavy Republican losses in the House, it seemed obvious that the men who followed the party most faithfully would be in the most danger in November. These were the congressmen who consistently voted against establishing new domestic spending programs and fought hardest to keep appropriations bill from exceeding the President's budget. And, in the nature of things, they were the congressmen who stood by President Nixon the longest, opening themselves to attack in the campaign.

Ford also was in the House when the old Republican-Southern Democratic coalition was at its peak, able to mold legislation in a more conservative cast than dominant northern and western Democrats wanted and able to thwart the will of President Kennedy.

In urging election of non-spenders, Ford also was giving a boost to many Southern Democrats, who despite the dreams of many GOP theorists, have been able to hold the conservative side of the road in their districts and resist efforts to push them toward the liberal side. Ford is realist enough to know that the GOP is not going to win many of these seats, and that he can have these Democratic votes on many issues if he does not get too partisan in dealing with the South.

Finally, the Ford declaration of political war against spenders gets his Republican Party off the potentially embarrassing campaign theme planned by GOP leaders before the Nixon resignation. This was to blame Democratic-controlled Congress for the nation's woes, a reverse version of the line Harry Truman took in 1948. Truman won his presidential election but he made no friends in Capitol Hill with his "do nothing, good for nothing" Congress. He ended his presidency fighting bitterly with Congress, and that is something Gerald Ford does not want.

Your right to inspect files

Schools anticipate little difficulty with student-records disclosure law

by KATHY BOYCE

Parents of school children in the Northwest suburbs and across the nation will be able to walk into their local school office and inspect their child's school record when President Gerald Ford signs the education bill on his desk into law.

Parents in Illinois have had that right for some time according to guidelines set forth by the state office of education. The guidelines permit parents to look at school records and forbid the release of these records to unauthorized personnel without parental consent.

And most school administrators in the Northwest suburbs say they are in compliance with these guidelines. They contend the new law will have little effect on them.

THE LAW. The Educational Amendments of 1974, was approved by Congress three weeks ago and Ford has promised to sign it this week.

Among the many provisions of the law is a section on the rights of privacy to parents and students. It spells out three basic rights.

Parents, or students over 18, will have the right to inspect their school files and may request a hearing to challenge the content of these files. No student files may be released to persons outside the school without the written consent of parents or students. And parents will have the right to inspect all instructional materials such as textbooks and films, used in a research or experimental program for their child.

The new law will apply to all public elementary schools, high schools, community colleges and universities. Schools that don't comply with the law can lose federal funds.

"You'll find at least in this area, that schools are in line with the proposed legislation. Should it be signed it would not come as a great shock," said Supt. Alan Gogo of East Maine Dist. 63. He said the Illinois education office saw the "handwriting on the wall" and wrote its own guidelines to backup the new requirements.

AT DIST. 63 parents do inspect their child's school record and records are not released to others unless they are under subpoena. Parents also are free to inspect materials for new school programs.

"Before the children actually use these materials we give the parents an opportunity to come in," he said.

Superintendents of schools in Palatine, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Arlington Heights, Wheeling, Elk Grove and Schaumburg had similar comments and in all cases they said their school district is already in accord with the new law.

"We see no problem whatsoever," said Supt. Frank Whiteley of Palatine - Rolling Meadows Dist. 15. School records have "been open to parents for years."

SUPT. DONALD STRONG of Arlington Heights Dist. 25 said five years ago parents were not always allowed to see their child's cumulative file but "most school districts have liberalized the policy" in the last two or three years. Parents at Dist. 25 can now see their child's file by contacting their school principal, said Strong.

Supt. Earl Sutter of Mount Prospect Dist. 57 said he feels the new law is a good law. "Parents are interested in what their students are doing and their progress. They should have access to information on the progress they are making."

Supt. Edward Gilbert of High School Dist. 214 said the new law may stimulate more parents to come in to look at school records and inspect classroom materials. "We offer quite a number of what we call experimental courses," he said, and parents have been allowed to inspect the materials their children are using in these courses.

At Oakton Community College, John Donohue, vice president for student development, said information on a student's record is not given out without the student's consent. Law enforcement agencies are no exception unless they have a subpoena, he said. Student records are confidential and are not released without "a student's explicit or implicit consent."

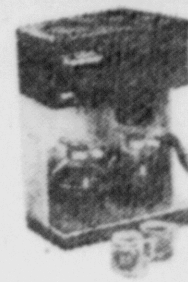

FRANKLYN S. HAIMAN, president of the Illinois division of the American Civil Liberties Union, said his office has had a few complaints of schools violating the confidentiality of student records. The school records issue is on the "frontier" of civil rights litigation, he said.

Haiman said the ACLU does take a position on the right of a parent or student to see the student's school record.

"We have taken the position generally that there shouldn't be anything in a student's records that he and his parents should not be able to see." And he adds, "Schools shouldn't divulge information on students without the knowledge or consent of the student or parents."

Regional 'hotline' slated

Youth bureau plans September start

A September target date has been set for the start of the Regional Youth Services Bureau serving Elk Grove, Schaumburg and Palatine townships.

The Regional Youth Services Bureau will operate a regional hotline and health services program. The bureau will be temporarily housed in The Bridge offices, 434 1/2 E. Northwest Hwy., Palatine.

The bureau has a $57,000 budget for its first year, which is being funded with equal contributions from the three townships.

"The objective is to provide the best delivery of service to youth in the Northwest suburban area. We believe by regionalizing special services the job can be done more efficiently and economically," said Mrs. Walter Letchem, chairman of the bureau's board of directors.

The Bridge and other youth service programs offered by the three townships will continue to be operated to provide information programs, a drop-in center, referral program, counseling, employment service and other youth services.

The main obstacle to meeting the September target date is finding a director of the Regional Youth Services Bureau. Candidates are being screened for the position but Mrs. Letchem said it may be a few weeks before the board of directors make an appointment.

Serving on the nine-member board of directors, which has one vacancy, are: Mrs. Letchem, Palatine; vice chairman, John Jensen, Hoffman Estates; secretary-treasurer, Paul Paprocki, Elk Grove; Barbara Barry, Rolling Meadows; David Alex, Schaumburg; Richard Hall, Elk Grove Township; David Russell, Palatine, and Larry Walker, Schaumburg.

Harper gets grant for nursing project

Harper College has received a federal grant of $88,488 for a special project in nurse education.

The U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare awarded the grant and $48,708 has been allotted for the first year of the two-year project.

The grant will be used for equipment, teaching materials and the salary of the director of the project.

Under the project two nursing programs at Harper, practical nursing and associate degree nursing, will be merged into one program. In the new program the first year curriculum will prepare students who wish to take the licensed practical nurse exams and the second year will prepare students for the associate nursing degree.

Win at bridge

by Oswald and James Jacoby

Holmes' deduction a bit foggy

The pattern of hands in "Sherlock Holmes-Bridge Detective" shows Holmes making contracts by brilliant play and the opponents being set at contracts they could and really should make.

The unfortunate declarer is then told by Holmes how he could have made his contract. Invariably, it is good bridge but somehow or other we don't see the great detective winning any popularity contests.

Holmes led the ace of clubs and continued with the 10. South ruffed in dummy. East overruffed and led back a trump. Poor South cashed his ace of hearts, led his last club and watched East overruff again. East had to lead back a diamond. South finessed his queen but still had to go down one trick.

Holmes pointed out that South could have made his contract by letting Holmes win three club tricks while discarding two diamonds from dummy. However, Holmes wasn't quite as pontifical as he might have been. He failed to point out that South had a second chance at trick four. He could have discarded a diamond from dummy right then and there and still made the game.

Pair has garden reception

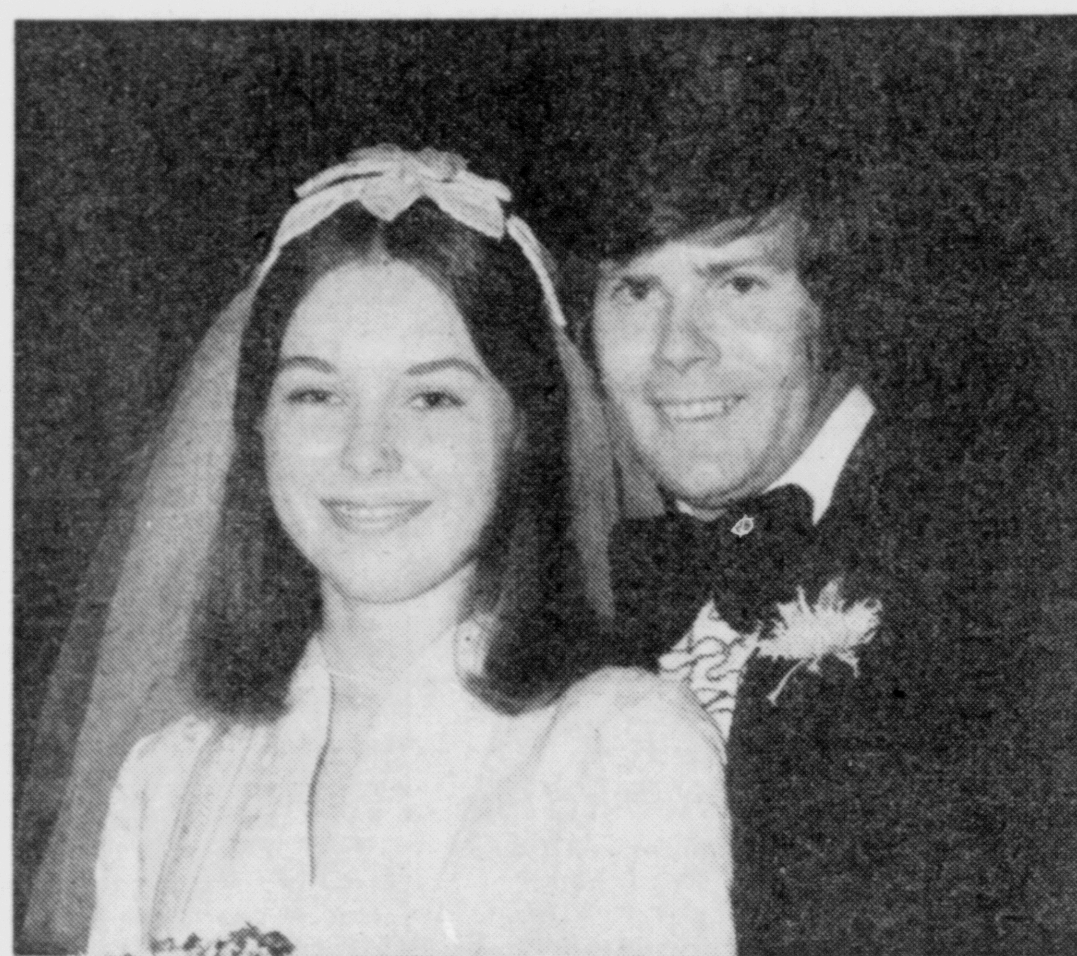

A garden reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Neil Laurin, 1549 N. Evergreen, Arlington Heights, followed the July 27 wedding of their daughter, Christie Lee, and John Schneider, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Schneider, 709 N. Eastwood, Mount Prospect.

The garden was abloom with hundreds of pink and white petunias and guests were served champagne, canapés and wedding cake under a pink and white canopy. Mrs. Laurin, by now a "pro" in arranging wedding ceremonies and giving receptions (she did the same for her other two daughters last summer), baked the wedding cake and prepared all the food for the reception. She also made Christie's gown and the gowns of Christie's twin sister, Dana Robison of Norridge, matron of honor, and Christie's sister Siri Lester, Arlington Heights, who was bridesmaid.

CHRISTIE'S EMPIRE gown was of cotton brocade with fleur-de-lis design. It featured a gathered skirt with train, raised neckline and short sleeves. Her shoulder-length veil was attached to a crown of petals made of dress fabric, and she carried white Starburst mums, pink carnations and yellow baby roses.

The attendants' halter gowns were in aqua crepe with matching jackets, trimmed in white ruffles. White ruffles also trimmed their white picture hats.

Carl Marker, Rockford, was best man for the double ring wedding, which was held in St. Raymond Church, Mount Prospect. Randy Peters, Kankakee, was usher, and the groom's cousins, David and Gregory Schrage, Oak Park, were altar boys.

Mr. and Mrs. John Schneider

A '69 graduate of Arlington High School, Christie is a '73 graduate of the University of Illinois and also of Forest Hospital's social therapist training program. John is a '69 graduate of St. Viator High School. He received a degree in industrial engineering from the University of Illinois, also in 1973, and is with General Foods, Kankakee.

Shies from offering advice on canning

Dear Dorothy: I do enjoy your column but I was surprised at your somewhat negative answer regarding sugar. Not even one suggestion how to stretch sugar at this time of rising costs — and the big canning season just ahead: It would be most welcome this year in particular to have some advice from you, what with all the fruits in our garden we'd like to can. —Mrs. J. K. G.

There are some ways of canning fruits without sugar, but I always shy away from offering canning advice. No one ought to do any kind of home preserving and canning without one of the newest and best books on the subject right at hand. Even as I write this, the experts are wrangling again about the proper processing requirements for certain foods. Yes, you can save sugar in canning some fruits, but please get one of the newest guidebooks and follow the instructions precisely.

Dear Dorothy: I have a plant belonging to the spiderwort family. The leaves were a deep, variegated reddish-purple. I placed it in the sun and now the color is gone and all the new growth is green. What must I do to get the red color back? It was so attractive with the deep coloring. —Dolores Weinstein

There are three species belonging to this family usually almost identical in appearance. However, they are supposed to be grown in indirect sunlight, moderate temperature and medium humidity. Try the recommended procedure and see what happens.

Dear Dorothy: None of us here drinks milk, but recipes often call for some. Was thinking of keeping milk powder on hand. How long does it last? And does it have to be refrigerated? —Katharine Ingalls

Only if it has been mixed with water. It keeps fine on the shelf.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 230, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Free herb program at Golf-Mill Friday

The Garden Club of Illinois Garden Center will present a program on growing culinary herbs at 10 a.m. Friday in the Golf-Mill Movie Theater, Niles.

Speaker will be Ed Hoffmann of Hubert Hoffmann and Sons, Inc., florists and greenhouses, Wilmette. While stationed in the Panama Canal Zone Hoffmann, a biologist, was an instructor-consultant to the military on harmful plant life.

There is no charge for the program which is open to gardeners, gourmets and the general public.

A brunch party for ORT members

The annual enrollment party for Far Acres Chapter of ORT will be champagne brunch in the adjoining Northgate gardens of Alyse Silk and Sara Kalina, Arlington Heights. The brunch is set for 11 a.m. next Monday with a rain date of Tuesday.

Entertaining will be "the jet set Heloise," Ilene Abrams, fashion adviser, author and TV guest, who will reveal beauty hints, fun with fashions and tricks to help save time and money.

Admission to the ORT (Organization for Rehabilitation through Training) brunch will be a check for the 1974-75 dues. Those wishing further information may call Audrey Stoller, 398-5270.

The Fords come home, briefly, to Midwest

President Gerald R. Ford visited Chicago yesterday in his first trip outside of Washington since assuming the presidency 10 days ago. After his arrival on Air Force One at O'Hare International Airport, where he was greeted by an enthusiastic crowd, the President and Mrs. Ford were taken by motorcade through Chicago and down Michigan Avenue to the cheers of welcoming Chicagoans, and blaring bands. The President delighted hundreds of well-wishers by stepping from his car at one point on Michigan Avenue to shake hands with members of the crowd. Near the Conrad Hilton Hotel, where he addressed the 75th annual convention of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, thousands of Greek citizens were assembled to chant slogans urging U.S. action against Turkey in the current fighting over the island of Cyprus. Ford startled the members of the VFW with the announcement that he has ordered two cabinet officers to make a detailed study of the question of draft resisters in the Vietnam war, with the prospect of arriving at some limited form of amnesty.
